TEACHERS HIT the picket lines in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 before school opened Thursday to get the board to compromise and set another contract session. Don Radlein, a MacArthur Junior High School teacher, points out one major stumbling block in contract talks with his sign. Teachers want to drop the current merit pay system which the board wants to keep. Despite the picket line, schools opened on time with all teachers returning to their classrooms by 8 a.m.

Federal-aid bill OK to aid suburbs

A Herald staff report

Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $25.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus, said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exhilarated," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKE, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowske said.

"I think they're smart people," Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $885,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $572,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $160,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $159,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

50 teachers picket Dist. 23 center

by JUDY JOBBITT

More than 50 of 90 Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers picketed the administration center Thursday morning in an effort to bring both sides in the stalled contract negotiations back to the bargaining table and to get the board of education to compromise on unsettled issues.

Teachers' union officials presented Supt. Edward Grodsky with a letter requesting his "assistance, as a neutral party, to reestablish direct and open lines of communications between the teachers and the board of education."

Grodsky said he is "in the process of thinking this through. They have asked a response from me."

The teachers termed his help "vital" in the letter. "We hope that you, Supt. Grodsky, who have worked so closely and have gained such respect from the board, can help them realize that this fine school district must continue to run smoothly and happily, and to ensure this, both sides must compromise."

GRODSKY SAID the teachers' demonstration was "very orderly" and that teachers returned to the schools by 8 a.m., their usual starting time.

"It was a matter of doing their thing, something they believed would get them back to the bargaining table," he said.

Teachers broke off negotiations two weeks ago saying the board was unwilling to negotiate a compromise.

Teachers want to drop the current merit system of pay for a standard salary schedule. The board requested that the merit system be kept for this year, but offered to establish a committee to investigate alternative methods of pay.

In return for allowing the committee to include merit systems in its investigation and recommendations, the teachers demanded that two board policies be added to the contract and that an early retirement policy be negotiated.

THE CURRENT board policies the teachers want added to the contract cover maternity leaves and procedures for releasing tenured teachers.

Board Pres. Melvin Lace said the early retirement policy is negotiable but the other policies are not. "These are things the board must not capitulate to because we're elected. There is no compromise on these things," he said.

He said he is concerned the demonstration Thursday resulted from differences over "issues the Illinois Education Assn. or other groups are trying to promote. It seems to be external to people in our district. It looks like people not at all familiar with our district are calling the shots."

The Dist. 23 teachers' union is affiliated with the IEA, a statewide teachers' union. The union also is a member of the North Suburban Unified Bargaining Council, a coalition of 16 teachers' unions which is involved in negotiating.

LACE SAID he also is concerned about the teachers' request that Grodsky act as a mediator in the current contract stalemate.

"It's not a case needing mediation," he said. "It's just a straight forward thing of negotiating. Mr. Grodsky has done many things to help us and the schools through conciliatory measures."

Lace said the superintendent is not supposed to negotiate and that teachers must schedule the next negotiating session because they broke off the contract talks. He said that requirement is included in the procedural agreement for negotiations.

The two items on the referendum are a $1.5 million golf course development at Central and Wilke roads and a $1.3 million improvement project at 22 park sites.

Absentee voting continues through 5 p.m. today at the park district office, 800 E. Falcon Dr.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 20 days will have to pay $15.50 a day toward the cost of the 21st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital care in a benefit period is needed — the patient will pay $62 for each reserve day used instead of the current $52.

"The increases are mandatory under law," said a spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "They are mandated by rising hospital costs."

THE CHANGES could cause hardship for many of the 24.7 million elderly persons on fixed incomes who are covered by hospital insurance under Medicare. The number of persons covered is expected to increase to 25.3 million next year.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the hike in the initial deductible is intended to make the beneficiary responsible for expenses approximately equal to the average cost of one day of hospial care.

Currently, the average hospital stay under Medicare costs about $1,600, the government said.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $56.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in supporting the override.

The House voted 312-93 to override, 42 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to beat a veto.

A total of 65 Republicans defected from Ford and joined 247 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $10 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 27,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-

1-cent gas tax goes into effect today in county

Cook County's new one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax, which was levied by the county board to raise an additional $18 million a year, takes effect today.

Service station owners say they should find out today just how far motorists will drive to avoid the new tax.

In borderline communities such as Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove, service station dealers on the Cook County side will compete with nearby dealers who will not be forced to levy the tax.

IT BOILS DOWN to a choice for motorists and dealers, said a spokesman for the Amoco Oil Co., Chicago. Dealers in Cook County can either raise their pump prices for gasoline a penny a gallon and risk losing customers to nearby dealers in another county, or "swallow the penny in their profit margins," he said.

The person who holds the key to the situation is the motorist, the Amoco spokesman said. The spokesman said Amoco will comply with the law, when asked about possible bootlegging problems.

Bob Copeland, manager of the Standard station at Devon and Wood Dale roads, Elk Grove Village, said Thursday he doubts the new county tax will have an immediate impact on his gas sales. Copeland's station is on the DuPage County side of Devon Ave. He charges 62.4 cents a gallon for regular gas.

"I'm passing along the tax. It's not my idea," said Dan Rutkowski, manager of Dan's Ranch Mart Mobil station at Dundee and Buffalo Grove roads, Buffalo Grove. He predicts that few motorists will drive to nearby Lake County to save a penny a gallon on fuel costs. He said his Thursday price of 65.9 cents a gallon for full service, regular gasoline sales and 61.5 cents a gallon for "mini-service" regular gas sales will rise one cent a gallon today.

AN ILLINOIS Gasoline Dealers Assn. representative said Thursday that Cook County dealers cannot absorb the gas tax cost, paid through suppliers.

The new fuel tax will "cause thousands of motorists" to buy gasoline outside Cook County, among consumers who generally buy gas inside the county, predicts Herbert Hugo, senior editor of the Platt's Oilgram industry publication in Chicago. "It very well could force a good many dealers out of business," Hugo said.

Hugo said the tax could also lead to bootlegging problems, if companies seek to avoid paying the premium.

Retail prices for gasoline will remain fairly stable, Hugo said. He said 63 cents to 64 cents a gallon is an average price for regular gas in the Chicago area. Unleaded fuel is generally 2 or more cents above regular fuel costs and premium gas is a penny or two above the unleaded price. "Leaded regular is still the best bargain," he said.

The Chicago Motor Club Thursday reported gasoline prices dropped .2 to .7 cents a gallon during the last two weeks in Chicago and Cook County. Average pump prices reported in the club's Fuel Gauge Report were: 62.9 cents a gallon for regular, down .4 cents; 68 cents a gallon for premium down .2 cents; and 65.4 cents a gallon for unleaded, down .7 cents.

Free transportation over, Judge rules

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Daniel A. Covelli signed an order Thursday allowing the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to eliminate free transportation for its employes at its Schaumburg offices. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes had sought to prohibit the loss of commuter bus servce from Elgin and Chicago. The service has been provided since April 1975 when the department moved offices from Chicago and Elgin to 1000 Plaza Dr., Schaumburg. About 80 employes used the bus service. Covelli also ordered the department not to impose penalties for transportation related absence or tardiness and to transfer employes with proven hardship in obtaining transportation to similar jobs in other state agencies.

Prospect Hts. to hire county cops?

Prospect Heights city officials are considering hiring off-duty Cook County Sheriff's police to enforce the Oct. 15 deadline for the purchase of 1976-77 vehicle stickers. Ald. Edward Bryant, chairman of the city council's public safety committee, said he is investigating if the city could hire two off-duty sheriff's policemen to patrol the city on weekends and weeknights for vehicles that do not display the new city stickers. An ordinance approved by the council this summer for the early sale of stickers sets a $10 fine for violators. The sheriff's police currently provide free service to the community.

1-cent gas tax goes into effect today in county

Cook County's new one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax, which was levied by the county board to raise an additional $18 million a year, takes effect today.

Service station owners say they should find out today just how far motorists will drive to avoid the new tax.

In borderline communities such as Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove, service station dealers on the Cook County side will compete with nearby dealers who will not be forced to levy the tax.

IT BOILS DOWN to a choice for motorists and dealers, said a spokesman for the Amoco Oil Co., Chicago. Dealers in Cook County can either raise their pump prices for gasoline a penny a gallon and risk losing customers to nearby dealers in another county, or "swallow the penny in their profit margins," he said.

The person who holds the key to the situation is the motorist, the Amoco spokesman said. The spokesman said Amoco will comply with the law, when asked about possible bootlegging problems.

Bob Copeland, manager of the Standard station at Devon and Wood Dale roads, Elk Grove Village, said Thursday he doubts the new county tax will have an immediate impact on his gas sales. Copeland's station is on the DuPage County side of Devon Ave. He charges 62.4 cents a gallon for regular gas.

"I'm passing along the tax. It's not my idea," said Dan Rutkowski, manager of Dan's Ranch Mart Mobil station at Dundee and Buffalo Grove roads, Buffalo Grove. He predicts that few motorists will drive to nearby Lake County to save a penny a gallon on fuel costs. He said his Thursday price of 65.9 cents a gallon for full service, regular gasoline sales and 61.5 cents a gallon for "mini-service" regular gas sales will rise one cent a gallon today.

AN ILLINOIS Gasoline Dealers Assn. representative said Thursday that Cook County dealers cannot absorb the gas tax cost, paid through suppliers.

The new fuel tax will "cause thousands of motorists" to buy gasoline outside Cook County, among consumers who generally buy gas inside the county, predicts Herbert Hugo, senior editor of the Platt's Oilgram industry publication in Chicago. "It very well could force a good many dealers out of business," Hugo said.

Hugo said the tax could also lead to bootlegging problems, if companies seek to avoid paying the premium.

Retail prices for gasoline will remain fairly stable, Hugo said. He said 63 cents to 64 cents a gallon is an average price for regular gas in the Chicago area. Unleaded fuel is generally 2 or more cents above regular fuel costs and premium gas is a penny or two above the unleaded price. "Leaded regular is still the best bargain," he said.

The Chicago Motor Club Thursday reported gasoline prices dropped .2 to .7 cents a gallon during the last two weeks in Chicago and Cook County. Average pump prices reported in the club's Fuel Gauge Report were: 62.9 cents a gallon for regular, down .4 cents; 68 cents a gallon for premium down .2 cents; and 65.4 cents a gallon for unleaded, down .7 cents.

Free transportation over, Judge rules

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Daniel A. Covelli signed an order Thursday allowing the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to eliminate free transportation for its employes at its Schaumburg offices. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes had sought to prohibit the loss of commuter bus servce from Elgin and Chicago. The service has been provided since April 1975 when the department moved offices from Chicago and Elgin to 1000 Plaza Dr., Schaumburg. About 80 employes used the bus service. Covelli also ordered the department not to impose penalties for transportation related absence or tardiness and to transfer employes with proven hardship in obtaining transportation to similar jobs in other state agencies.

50 teachers picket Dist. 23

More than 50 teachers picketed in front of the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 administration center Thursday morning in efforts to bring both sides back to the bargaining table and get the board to compromise on contract issues. Supt. Edward Grodsky said the demonstration was "very orderly" and that teachers returned to classrooms by their 8 a.m. starting time. "It was a matter of doing their thing, something they believed would get them back to the bargaining table," he said. Negotiations between the teachers and board negotiators broke off two weeks ago.

Prospect Hts. to hire county cops?

Prospect Heights city officials are considering hiring off-duty Cook County Sheriff's police to enforce the Oct. 15 deadline for the purchase of 1976-77 vehicle stickers. Ald. Edward Bryant, chairman of the city council's public safety committee, said he is investigating if the city could hire two off-duty sheriff's policemen to patrol the city on weekends and weeknights for vehicles that do not display the new city stickers. An ordinance approved by the council this summer for the early sale of stickers sets a $10 fine for violators. The sheriff's police currently provide free service to the community.

Soviets fueling flames of war: Kissinger

UNITED NATIONS (UPI—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger Thursday accused the Soviet Union of "fueling the flames of war and racial hatred" by trying to undermine his African diplomacy and warned the Kremlin there can be no "selective detente."

In what may have been his last major foreign policy speech, Kissinger delivered an hour-long review of U.S. foreign policy before the U.N. General Assembly.

In it, Kissinger also called for a resumption of the Geneva Conference on the Middle East, indicating his step-by-step diplomacy which won disengagement agreements between Israel and Egypt was dead.

"The United States believes that the future of mankind requires coexistence with the Soviet Union," Kissinger said. "Tired slogans cannot obscure the necessity for a more constructive relationship.

"We will insist that restraint be reciprocal not just in bilateral relations but around the globe," Kissinger said. "There can be no selective detente."

Turning to criticism of his African shuttle, which won Rhodesian acceptance of black majority rule, by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as "political gimmickry," Kissinger was blunt:

"We have noted crude attempts to distort the purposes of diplomacy and to impede hopeful progress toward peaceful solutions to complex issues. These efforts only foster tensions."

"There may be some countries who see a chance for advantage in fueling the flames of war and racial hatred," Kissinger said. "But they are not motivated by concern for the peoples of Africa, or for peace."

Gromyko was not in the U.N. Assembly hall when Kissinger delivered his speech.

Kissinger said negotiations on Rhodesia which he arranged on his shuttle will give both sides in the black-white dispute "an opportunity to pull back from the brink."

Turning to the Middle East, Kissinger called for an "early resumption" of the Geneva conference on the Middle East.

"The step-by-step negotiations of the past three years have now brought us to a point where comprehensive solutions seem possible," Kissinger said. The call for "comprehensive solutions" seemed to put an end to Kissinger's personal, shuttle style of diplomacy in the Middle East.

The speech, which was noticeably sharper and impatient with those who oppose U.S. efforts, may have been Kissinger's last major foreign policy review. He has said that he would prefer to leave office, even if President Ford were to be elected in November.

Immediate reaction to Kissinger's speech was favorable.

One nonaligned delegate, E.L.F. de Seneviratne, of Sri Lanka, and Italian Ambassador Pierro Vinci, both said, "This was one of the best speeches that Kissinger ever gave."

Jamil Baroddy of Saudi Arabia said. "a good and well blanced speech but words are not sufficient. It will depend on the political will to realize them."

Ford defends golf dates, campaign funding issues

By United Press International

Defending "my record of personal integrity," President Ford Thursday denied he ever misused campaign funds and said his golf dates with lobbyists were proper, innocent outings with friends.

"My conscience is clear," he said.

Ford called reporters into the Oval Office to deal personally with reports the Watergate special prosecutor is investigating his congressional campaign finances and to discuss the golf controversy that has popped up in the midst of his presidential campaign.

He predicted the Watergate prosecutor's probe would clear him completely — if such a probe is in progress — and said he hoped the investigators would finish their efforts soon.

In Boston, Jimmy Carter said he was satisfied with Ford's explanations and that closes the matter, "as far as I'm concerned."

Carter, who had urged Ford to speak up on these issues, opened a three-day campaign swing through the Northeast, turning his fire on Ford's record on unemployment.

"Gerald Ford has no concern about people out of work," he told unemployed persons gathered in a diner in Buffalo, first stop on the day's tour.

He claimed Ford had cost the nation 2 million jobs by vetoing bills that would have generated employment potential.

Ford, leaning on his Oval Office desk, conceded he found the reports questioning his integrity somewhat painful, but maintained he is not worried about their impact on him personally.

"I can say with complete confidence that when the investigation is completed I would be free of any allegations that I've read about," he said.

"It's more important to me personally that it be cleared up because I'm very proud of my record of personal integrity. It's more important to me than the election."

The President, as harried aides and Carter have been urging him to do, dealt with two controversies:

Reports, still not officially confirmed, that special prosecutor Charles Ruff is investigating whether he made personal use as a congressman of campaign funds from the Kent County, Mich., GOP organization; and White House admissions that, as a congressman, he golfed as the guest of corporate executives.

• On the campaign fund issue, he said: "No money ever went to me personally in Kent County or anywhere else."

• On the golf dates, he said: "I do not feel there was any impropriety on my part or any violation" of congressional ethics codes. "I am an avid golfer and I enjoy the company of friends while playing golf . . . I have not accepted nor have they tendered anything that was improper."

Ruff has refused to comment on reports he is investigating whether campaign funds from two maritime unions were funneled to Ford for personal use through the Michigan GOP. The President indicated he himself is not sure any such probe is in progress.

"I have no information whatever on what the special prosecutor is doing," he said.

PRESIDENT FORD leans against the front of his mahogany desk in the Oval Office Thursday and tells reporters he has never accepted any campaign funds for his personal use and expressed confidence he would be cleared in any inquiry by the Special Watergate Prosecutor.

22 Nixon letters ruled forgeries

A lawyer for former President Richard Nixon said Thursday postal investigators have ruled that 22 letters allegedly written by Nixon to the wife of a foreign diplomat are forgeries. Herbert J. Miller Jr. released a report from the Postal Inspection Service that said, "A handwriting analysis has determined that the letters were not written by Mr. Nixon . . ." The letters "apparently originated in Washington and passed through the hands of individuals in Detroit and Los Angeles before coming to the attention of New York literary agent Scott Meredith," the Postal Service said.

Rizzo ouster move unlawful: court

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled Thursday a move to oust Philadelphia Mayor Frank L. Rizzo from office is unconstitutional and he does not have to face a special recall election in November. The court, in a 4-2-1 decision, reversed a ruling by Common Pleas Court Judge David N. Savitt, who had ordered the "yes-no" question on Rizzo be placed on the Nov. 2 election ballot. Rizzo, at a hastily called news conference attended by about 50 supporters, said his "political career has suffered no blow. I never had any doubts the Supreme Court would rule on facts. The law is on my side." Shelly Yannoff, leader of the recall movement, termed the decision "a terrible disappointment."

Ford signs benefits bill for veterans

President Ford Thursday signed legislation giving nearly 5 million veterans increased disability and pension benefits to offset the higher cost of living. He said they served the nation in wartime and "it is only right that we serve them well in times of peace." Ford, speaking at a White House ceremony before more than 100 guests, signed two bills. One provided an 8 per cent hike in monthly benefit rates, effective Friday, for veterans receiving disability compensation or to surviving spouses and children of veterans whose deaths were service connected. The second bill extended a temporary 8 per cent increase in pension benefits for about 2.3 million veterans, dependents and survivors until the end of 1976 and gave them a further 7 per cent boost effective Jan. 1.

Black power struggle in Rhodesia hinted

A militant black nationalist announced Thursday he would return from self-exile, raising the possibility of a power struggle among blacks maneuvering for control of Rhodesia during the transition to majority rule. Through spokesmen, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, leader of the so-called external wing of the African National Council, said he will return to Rhodesia within two weeks to participate in the formation of an interim government to rule Rhodesia during the transition. A spokesman said Muzorewa, who left the country last year, planned to lead a delegation to a British-sponsored conference to be held outside Rhodesia in about two weeks.

Mine blast kills 16 in France

A fire 3,400 feet underground Thursday triggered methane gas explosions, killing 16 miners in the heart of France's coal mining region, police said. Intense heat and danger of explosions prevented body recovery operation. A spokesman for the mine at Merlebach, near Metz in Lorraine, said the victims were miners fighting the underground fire which raged for several hours before the deadly explosion. The explosion came when the blaze hit a pocket of pit gas, also known as fire-damp.

Syrians clearing out resistance

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian and Christian forces slashed through Lebanon's central mountains Thursday in a mop-up campaign to drive retreating Palestinian forces from their last remaining positions. It was the Palestinians worst defeat in the war.

"After our losses yesterday, we could not hold out," a Palestinian spokesman said. "We are retreating wherever we can and attempting to hold out where we cannot. But it's just a matter of time."

Palestinian sources conceded that the loss of the mountain front 20 miles east of Beirut and north of the Beirut-Damascus highway to a 48-hour Syrian armored and infantry assault was one of their most disastrous losses in nearly 18 months of civil strife in Lebanon.

"The loss of Tal Zaatar," one Palestinian source said in reference to the refugee camp that fell after a 55-day Christian siege last month, "was a prestige blow. But the mountain front is a real strategic loss."

The Christians had predicted total victory within three days when the assault began Tuesday. At the time it seemed a boast but a Syrian tank-led assault Wednesday night captured the three major Palestinian held towns in house-to-house fighting and drove the Palestinians into retreat.

Spokesmen for Christian militias that participated in the assault conceded there were still "pockets of resistance here and there which are being wiped out."

One of them was Ras el Maten, 13 miles southeast of Beirut, which Palestinian spokesmen said they would attempt to hold "as long as possible to help cover the retreat from our other positions."

Reporters touring the area Thursday said Ras el Maten was coming under Syrian artillery fire and being surrounded. There were still guerrillas in the woods fighting a harrassing action with Syrian patrols.

Although the Palestinians still held some positions along the strategic Jabel El Knisse ridge 20 miles east of Beirut, they were cut off and surrounded due to the loss of the three towns vital to their mountain defense — Hammana, Metein and Aintoura.

Congress overrides HEW bill veto

search for the 1977 fiscal year that starts Friday.

The HEW section of the bill included two provisions that apparently helped attract some Republican support for the override.

One bans use of federal funds for abortions, except if a mother's life is endangered, and the other exempts farms employing 10 or fewer persons from coverage of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

The measure exceeded Ford's budget requests by $4 billion, a point that Ford cited as "a perfect example of the triumph of election year politics over fiscal restraint and responsibility to the hard-pressed American taxpayer."

"The President is clearly insensitive to the times," said House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill. "He seems proud of his record of vetoing every substantial piece of legislation that affects the health, the jobs, the progress of America."

Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., leader of the GOP effort to sustain the veto, said "a vote to override is not a vote against health, against education or against the poor and the elderly. The President proposed $52.5 billion for those programs which is three times the amount in the budget of the last year of the (Lyndon B.) Johnson presidency."

During a long, hectic and, sometimes, tense day the Senate and House rushed through major and minor measures in assembly line fashion, trying to clear the way for adjournment Friday night or Saturday.

Bills, which normally would have sparked extended debate, rolled through the chambers with barely a word. Conference reports zipped back-and-forth so they could be approved and sent to the White House.

Speaker Carl Albert and Acting Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said they were optimistic the 94th Congress could adjourn late Friday night but there remained fears the session could spill over to Saturday and possibly even into next week.

Congressional legal experts said a technicality could keep Congress in session — on at least a pro-forma basis — until Monday.

A set of regulations governing campaigns has been sent to Congress by the Federal Election Commission and cannot go into effect until after 30 legislative days have expired, a time frame which would end Monday.

White House officials, meantime, said Ford will sign both of the major job bills passed this year by Congress.

John O. Marsh, a Ford counselor, and Max Friedersdorf, Ford's chief congressional liaison aide, said "we were instructed to advise the leadership of the House and Senate that the President will sign both the jobs bills."

MIG25 performance tests slated

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese and American technicians will conduct performance tests within a few days on a Soviet MiG25 fighter which reportedly was designed to intercept and destroy U.S. high altitude B52 and B70 bombers, military sources said Thursday.

Sources at the Japan Self Defense Agency said the tests will be conducted with the MIG's engine turned on but declined to say whether an attempt will be made to fly the plane, considered the Soviets' most advanced fighter.

The twin-engine MiG25, called the "Foxbat," is capable of speeds in excess of 1,850 miles per hour and three years ago set an altitude record of 119,000 feet.

Experts disassembled the plane after it was flown from Siberia to an airport at Hakodate in northern Japan Sept. 6 by defecting Soviet Air Force Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29, who eluded Japan's radar screen by flying at low altitudes. Belenko was granted asylum in the United States.

- On the golf dates, he said: "I do not feel there was any impropriety on my part or any violation" of congressional ethics codes. "I am an avid golfer and I enjoy the company of friends while playing golf . . . I have not accepted nor have they tendered anything that was improper."

Ruff has refused to comment on reports he is investigating whether campaign funds from two maritime unions were funneled to Ford for personal use through the Michigan GOP. The President indicated he himself is not sure any such probe is in progress.

"I have no information whatever on what the special prosecutor is doing," he said.

PRESIDENT FORD leans against the front of his mahogany desk in the Oval Office Thursday and tells reporters he has never accepted any campaign funds for his personal use and expressed confidence he would be cleared in any inquiry by the Special Watergate Prosecutor.

22 Nixon letters ruled forgeries

A lawyer for former President Richard Nixon said Thursday postal investigators have ruled that 22 letters allegedly written by Nixon to the wife of a foreign diplomat are forgeries. Herbert J. Miller Jr. released a report from the Postal Inspection Service that said, "A handwriting analysis has determined that the letters were not written by Mr. Nixon . . ." The letters "apparently originated in Washington and passed through the hands of individuals in Detroit and Los Angeles before coming to the attention of New York literary agent Scott Meredith," the Postal Service said.

Rizzo ouster move unlawful: court

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled Thursday a move to oust Philadelphia Mayor Frank L. Rizzo from office is unconstitutional and he does not have to face a special recall election in November. The court, in a 4-2-1 decision, reversed a ruling by Common Pleas Court Judge David N. Savitt, who had ordered the "yes-no" question on Rizzo be placed on the Nov. 2 election ballot. Rizzo, at a hastily called news conference attended by about 50 supporters, said his "political career has suffered no blow. I never had any doubts the Supreme Court would rule on facts. The law is on my side." Shelly Yannoff, leader of the recall movement, termed the decision "a terrible disappointment."

Ford signs benefits bill for veterans

President Ford Thursday signed legislation giving nearly 5 million veterans increased disability and pension benefits to offset the higher cost of living. He said they served the nation in wartime and "it is only right that we serve them well in times of peace." Ford, speaking at a White House ceremony before more than 100 guests, signed two bills. One provided an 8 per cent hike in monthly benefit rates, effective Friday, for veterans receiving disability compensation or to surviving spouses and children of veterans whose deaths were service connected. The second bill extended a temporary 8 per cent increase in pension benefits for about 2.3 million veterans, dependents and survivors until the end of 1976 and gave them a further 7 per cent boost effective Jan. 1.

Black power struggle in Rhodesia hinted

A militant black nationalist announced Thursday he would return from self-exile, raising the possibility of a power struggle among blacks maneuvering for control of Rhodesia during the transition to majority rule. Through spokesmen, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, leader of the so-called external wing of the African National Council, said he will return to Rhodesia within two weeks to participate in the formation of an interim government to rule Rhodesia during the transition. A spokesman said Muzorewa, who left the country last year, planned to lead a delegation to a British-sponsored conference to be held outside Rhodesia in about two weeks.

Mine blast kills 16 in France

A fire 3,400 feet underground Thursday triggered methane gas explosions, killing 16 miners in the heart of France's coal mining region, police said. Intense heat and danger of explosions prevented body recovery operation. A spokesman for the mine at Merlebach, near Metz in Lorraine, said the victims were miners fighting the underground fire which raged for several hours before the deadly explosion. The explosion came when the blaze hit a pocket of pit gas, also known as fire-damp.

Syrians clearing out resistance

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian and Christian forces slashed through Lebanon's central mountains Thursday in a mop-up campaign to drive retreating Palestinian forces from their last remaining positions. It was the Palestinians worst defeat in the war.

"After our losses yesterday, we could not hold out," a Palestinian spokesman said. "We are retreating wherever we can and attempting to hold out where we cannot. But it's just a matter of time."

Palestinian sources conceded that the loss of the mountain front 20 miles east of Beirut and north of the Beirut-Damascus highway to a 48-hour Syrian armored and infantry assault was one of their most disastrous losses in nearly 18 months of civil strife in Lebanon.

"The loss of Tal Zaatar," one Palestinian source said in reference to the refugee camp that fell after a 55-day Christian siege last month, "was a prestige blow. But the mountain front is a real strategic loss."

The Christians had predicted total victory within three days when the assault began Tuesday. At the time it seemed a boast but a Syrian tank-led assault Wednesday night captured the three major Palestinian held towns in house-to-house fighting and drove the Palestinians into retreat.

Spokesmen for Christian militias that participated in the assault conceded there were still "pockets of resistance here and there which are being wiped out."

One of them was Ras el Maten, 13 miles southeast of Beirut, which Palestinian spokesmen said they would attempt to hold "as long as possible to help cover the retreat from our other positions."

Reporters touring the area Thursday said Ras el Maten was coming under Syrian artillery fire and being surrounded. There were still guerrillas in the woods fighting a harrassing action with Syrian patrols.

Although the Palestinians still held some positions along the strategic Jabel El Knisse ridge 20 miles east of Beirut, they were cut off and surrounded due to the loss of the three towns vital to their mountain defense — Hammana, Metein and Aintoura.

search for the 1977 fiscal year that starts Friday.

The HEW section of the bill included two provisions that apparently helped attract some Republican support for the override.

One bans use of federal funds for abortions, except if a mother's life is endangered, and the other exempts farms employing 10 or fewer persons from coverage of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

The measure exceeded Ford's budget requests by $4 billion, a point that Ford cited as "a perfect example of the triumph of election year politics over fiscal restraint and responsibility to the hard-pressed American taxpayer."

"The President is clearly insensitive to the times," said House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill. "He seems proud of his record of vetoing every substantial piece of legislation that affects the health, the jobs, the progress of America."

Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., leader of the GOP effort to sustain the veto, said "a vote to override is not a vote against health, against education or against the poor and the elderly. The President proposed $52.5 billion for those programs which is three times the amount in the budget of the last year of the (Lyndon B.) Johnson presidency."

During a long, hectic and, sometimes, tense day the Senate and House rushed through major and minor measures in assembly line fashion, trying to clear the way for adjournment Friday night or Saturday.

Bills, which normally would have sparked extended debate, rolled through the chambers with barely a word. Conference reports zipped back-and-forth so they could be approved and sent to the White House.

Speaker Carl Albert and Acting Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said they were optimistic the 94th Congress could adjourn late Friday night but there remained fears the session could spill over to Saturday and possibly even into next week.

Congressional legal experts said a technicality could keep Congress in session — on at least a pro-forma basis — until Monday.

A set of regulations governing campaigns has been sent to Congress by the Federal Election Commission and cannot go into effect until after 30 legislative days have expired, a time frame which would end Monday.

White House officials, meantime, said Ford will sign both of the major job bills passed this year by Congress.

John O. Marsh, a Ford counselor, and Max Friedersdorf, Ford's chief congressional liaison aide, said "we were instructed to advise the leadership of the House and Senate that the President will sign both the jobs bills."

MIG25 performance tests slated

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese and American technicians will conduct performance tests within a few days on a Soviet MiG25 fighter which reportedly was designed to intercept and destroy U.S. high altitude B52 and B70 bombers, military sources said Thursday.

Sources at the Japan Self Defense Agency said the tests will be conducted with the MIG's engine turned on but declined to say whether an attempt will be made to fly the plane, considered the Soviets' most advanced fighter.

The twin-engine MiG25, called the "Foxbat," is capable of speeds in excess of 1,850 miles per hour and three years ago set an altitude record of 119,000 feet.

Experts disassembled the plane after it was flown from Siberia to an airport at Hakodate in northern Japan Sept. 6 by defecting Soviet Air Force Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29, who eluded Japan's radar screen by flying at low altitudes. Belenko was granted asylum in the United States.

Niles faculty accord –school Tuesday

The eight-day-old teachers' strike in Niles High School District 219 in Skokie ended Thursday with agreement between 267 striking teachers and the board of education only hours before the teachers were due to be fired. The three District 219 high schools, which have 7,000 students, will reopen Tuesday after the Yom Kippur holiday, the board announced. John Herbst, a spokesman for the teachers said the agreement was reached shortly before 6 a.m. — only two hours before the 8 a.m. deadline set by the board for firing the teachers if they failed to show up for work.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. But Herbst said it contained a provision that none of the 267 striking teachers would lose their jobs. Other sources said the new three-year agreement, which has yet to be ratified by the teachers, calls for a 4.5 per cent salary increase in the first year..

'Cooley' suspects surrender

Two men turned themselves in Thursday in the shotgun slaying of Norman Gibson, 25, who was picked up by talent scouts on a North Side street corner and turned into an actor for the movie "Cooley High." The two, aged 21 and 22, were, named by witnesses to the slaying Wednesday on the street not far from where the movie makers found Gibson. Police said they have not yet been charged in the case.

Gibson, who played a young tough in the 1975 movie about life in a Chicago ghetto, was watching a street corner dice game Wednesday when two men got out of a car and shot him with a shotgun in the back at close range. Witnesses said one of them pumped a small-caliber handgun bullet into Gibson's head as he fell. Police said the slaying was an apparent act of revenge for Gibson firing a shot at one of the gunmen's sister. They said Gibson had been held for two weeks in the incident and was released the day before he died.

Teen gives up in Bolger case

A 16-year-old Chicago youth wanted in the slaying of Lori Bolger surrendered to Elgin police Thursday and was charged with obstruction of justice. Elgin Police Lt. Ed Christ said the officers will attempt to have the youth tried as an adult. The youth was indicted by a Kane County grand jury Tuesday in the death of Miss Bolger, 16, a South Elgin girl whose bludgeoned body was found on the outskirts of Elgin June 22.

Four other Chicago men have been charged in Miss Bolger's death. Robert Ikhtiari, 18, and James Martin, 21, are being held without bond on murder charges in Miss Bolger's death pending arraignment in Kane County Circuit Court Oct. 8. Gary Miller, 22, and John Rowe, 21, were charged with obstruction of justice. Rowe was released Wednesday on $10,000 bond. Miller remained in jail.

Walker not through in politics: Daley

Mayor Richard J. Daley said Thursday Gov. Daniel Walker probably could win the Senate seat held by Republican Charles H. Percy in 1978. "I don't think Dan Walker is through in politics," Daley told a news conference. "He's a young man. He went out and supported the whole Democratic ticket and has proven he's a Democrat." Walker lost the Democratic gubernatorial primary last March to Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, who ran with Daley's backing. Since then, Walker has made apparent peace with the Daley organization by campaigning for Howlett and the rest of the state Democratic ticket. Percy's Senate term expires in 1978.

Bomb suspect nabbed

A third Quincy man was arrested and charged Thursday in the series of bomb blasts that killed one and injured another man while GOP vice presidential candidate Robert Dole visited Quincy earlier this week. Adams County sheriff's police arrested Stanley Bruce Stock, 18, Quincy, in his home Thursday and charged him with arson and murder. Robert Motley, 37, a Quincy construction worker, and 17-year-old Jeffrey T. Lewis, Quincy, were arrested Wednesday and charged with murder and arson. Adams County State's Atty. Robert Bier said no further suspects were being sought in the case.

Reagonites urged to back Ford

Republican campaign workers who stumped Illinois for former California Gov. Ronald Reagan were asked Thursday to give their full support to President Ford. The request was made in a letter signed by former Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, Ford's state campaign director, and Reagan's top Illinois supporters — state Rep. Donald Totten and Rep. Philip Crane. They asked Reagan loyalists to throw their "full support and volunteer organization" to the President and "participate in all activities to insure Jerry Ford's election. Just as we are counting on the support Governor Reagan, himself will be giving the President in Illinois, we are also counting on your support," the letter said.

Tax hike not needed: Howlett

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett said Thursday Illinois will get $1.5 billion in new revenue during the next two years through the expansion of the economy and that should be enough to prevent any hike in tax rates. But Howlett said he doesn't think corporations are paying their fair share of taxes. If a tax increase does become necessary, he said, corporate taxpayers should be hit first. He also repeated his pledge to fight for a constitutional amendment that would make it possible to raise corporate taxes if such a hike became necessary.

Planners invite merchants to meet

Property owners and merchants in downtown Arlington Heights are invited to a special Arlington Heights Plan Commission meeting 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss proposed improvements for the central business district.

The meeting will be in the council chambers of the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

"This is an opportunity for merchants and property owners to say what direction downtown improvements should go," said Village Planner Joseph Kesler.

A formal hearing on long range land-use proposals for the central business district has been scheduled by the plan commission Oct. 27.

The land-use proposal, the village parking requirements and plans for a panking garage and shopping plaza-office building on the block bounded by Vail, Sigwalt, Dunton and Campbell streets will be discussed at Thursday's meeting, Kesler said.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendement.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons, I am opposed because the amendment decries the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employes and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

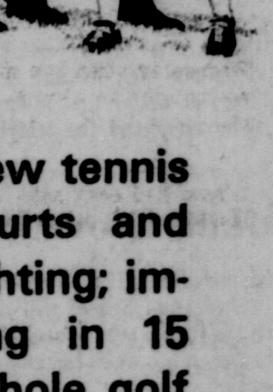
PARK REFERENDUM

Saturday, October 2nd

The development of recreational areas is a vital need in our community. Recreational land is an important asset, yet developed park land in Arlington Heights is far below that of other communities. Open land is scarce and this valuable asset should be preserved in a useful state. For a comparatively small cost in tax dollars - approximately $12.00 per year - The Park District could develop over 105 acres of park land.

Included in this project would be 17 new tennis courts; improvement of existing courts and athletic field by providing adequate lighting; improved fieldhouses; walkway lighting in 15 parks; and the construction of an 18 hole golf course.

Approval of The Referendum will benefit you in many ways. It is good for you financially - estimated taxes are twelve dollars a year for both issues, but the benefit to you is thousands of dollars of property appreciation because people are bidding high to live in our fine community.



It is good for you Recreationally. The more open land that is preserved as a golf course or parks, the more you and your family and neighbors will be able to enjoy these facilities.

Planners invite merchants to meet

Property owners and merchants in downtown Arlington Heights are invited to a special Arlington Heights Plan Commission meeting 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss proposed improvements for the central business district.

The meeting will be in the council chambers of the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

"This is an opportunity for merchants and property owners to say what direction downtown improvements should go," said Village Planner Joseph Kesler.

A formal hearing on long range land-use proposals for the central business district has been scheduled by the plan commission Oct. 27.

The land-use proposal, the village parking requirements and plans for a panking garage and shopping plaza-office building on the block bounded by Vail, Sigwalt, Dunton and Campbell streets will be discussed at Thursday's meeting, Kesler said.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendement.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons, I am opposed because the amendment decries the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employes and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

Wheeling-based weatherman

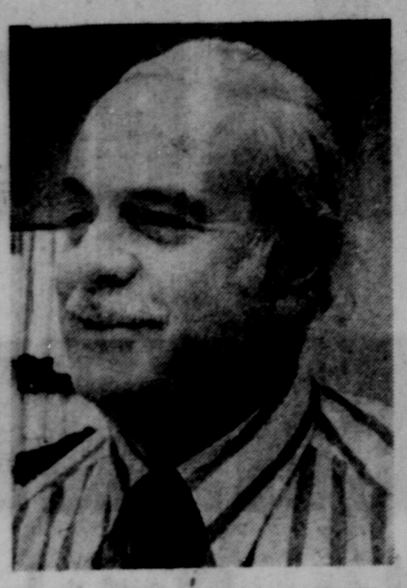
Forecasting folly Finckle's forte

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Earl Finckle makes a living trying to second guess the most unpredictable, temperamental woman of all time — Mother Nature.

Finckle has spent the past 30 years forecasting storms and sunshine because "it's a challenge" and because there are many persons whose livelihoods depend on the weather."

"The first thing people want to know when they get up in the morning is what the weather will be like. It determines what they will wear and even what their dispositions will be like," said the 50-year-old meteorologist and radio personality who operates the Weather Forecasting Service in Wheeling.



EARL FINCKLE

"BUT THERE ARE many corporations and businessmen who must make multimillion dollar decisions everyday on the basis of the weather — it has that much of an effect on what they produce and the job they do," he said.

Finckle, a Skokie resident, is paid anywhere from $10 to brief a private pilot on the weather conditions he'll encounter during a round trip to New York, to $20,000 a year for making daily weather reports to grain brokers who must determine the prospects for buying and selling.

He lets the Chicago White Sox and Cubs baseball teams know if rain clouds will burst over their home games so rain checks can be issued, and he informs road contractors if rain is expected before they begin pouring concrete.

The operators of the Great America amusement park in Gurnee need to know if high winds and stormy weather are headed their way before setting up death-defying roller coaster rides. Ski resorts need advance notice of snow before opening their slopes to anxious skiers.

EVEN PASKISTANI government officials recently employed Finckle to predict the success of this year's cotton crop.

The list of diverse clients seeking Finckle's talents is endless.

Finckle insists his method of predicting the whims of Mother Nature is completely scientific and he never relies on someone's throbbing corn or the thickness of a muskrat's fur to tell him when it will rain or how deep the snowfall will be.

Finckle and his seven-member staff chart the world's upper wind patterns on complex weather maps in the forecasting office at 1098 S. Milwaukee Ave.

COMPUTERS, radar devices and other machines, some connected to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington, D.C. keep the meteorologists informed about world weather conditions.

The forecasting service specializes in Midwest predictions, particularly in the Chicago area.

Finckle, who got his start as a meteorologist in 1945 with the Air Force, makes live broadcasts of the weather every morning and afternoon to Midwestern radio stations, including WIND and WGN in Chicago.

After the predictions are on record, Finckle retires to his office overlooking the runways at the north end of Pal-Waukee Airport and there, he is confronted with the truth of his forecast through ceiling-to-floor windows.

If it's a black, rainy day, and he's predicted sunshine, he's been known to draw the drapes.

"WE'RE USUALLY very accurate about the weather. We try to do our best with the equipment we have and our experienced eye," he said. "Of course, we aren't going to talk about the predictions that didn't pan out."

More often than not, Finckle says he's been right, but getting skeptics to believe his advance notices is quite another thing, he said.

One year, Finckle warned ex-Cubs' manager Leo Durocher that torrents of rain would fall midway through their Sunday baseball game at Wrigley Field.

Between innings, Durocher walked out of the dugout in a bright yellow rain hat and coat, parading around the field mocking Finckle's prediction. By the time he got to first base it was pouring," Finckle said.

OTHERS HAVE taken the weatherman's forecasts to heart. Family barbecues and outings have been postponed, parades have been canceled and even Cubs' games have been rescheduled, as in April 1975 when Chicago was hit by two inches of snow.

Finckle said he didn't know what to expect 15 years ago when he first opened his weather service at the airfield. He was given free office space in exchange for offering free advice to Pal-Waukee pilots.

"The weather in the Chicago area is extremely variable and the number of people who rely on weather conditions to do their work is ever growing. I've learned that," he said.

Police arrest trio on drug counts

Arlington Heights police have arrested three suburban men on charges of possession of drugs valued at more than $1,700.

The first arrest took place when David M. Cleveland, 24, Morton Grove, was stopped for disobeying a traffic signal at Rand and Palatine roads at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Police charged Cleveland with disobeying a red light and four counts of drug possession.

Detectives then telephoned a room at the Clayton House Motel, at 1090 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

POLICE SAID an investigator set up a drug sale with William D. Terry, 18, of 1624 E. Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, who answered the telephone at the motel room.

An investigator met Terry at 3:30 a.m. Thursday in front of an office building at 1000 S. Milwaukee Ave., and paid Terry $60 for 33 tablets of amphetamines and a quantity of cocaine, police said.

Arlington Heights detectives and a Cook County sheriff's policeman moved in and arrested Terry and an accomplice, Philip N. Norman, 18, of 1882 Wood Ln., Mount Prospect, police said.

Police charged Terry with delivery of a controlled substance, and Norman with possession of 15 grams of marijuana.

Norman was released on $1,000 bond and was ordered to appear Oct. 22 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Cleveland was assigned $25,000 bond, and Terry, $10,000 bond. Both are being held in the Cook County Jail, in lieu of bond, to await a court hearing today in the Arlington Heights court.

Buffalo Grove High homecoming slated

Students and staff members at Buffalo Grove High School will dress to match the theme set for each day during homecoming week beginning Monday with "grub day."

Students also will begin making floats Monday for the parade at 1:45 p.m. on Thursday.

Homecoming queen candidates will be presented Tuesday, "class day," during a school assembly at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday's theme is "western round-up day."

The queen will be crowned on Thursday, "color day," at 1 p.m., directly preceding the parade.

Friday's theme, the '50s, will be emphasized at the 2:40 p.m. pep assembly — "Happy Days — the '50s."

Saturday's activities include a football game against Fremd High School of Palatine at noon and the homecoming dance, "Times of Your Life," at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria, 1101 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Parking meter stolen from Vail Street

Thieves early Wednesday morning stole a parking meter valued at $75 from Vail Street in Arlington Heights, police said.

Police said the thieves stole the one-hour meter, its $10 post and $2 in coins from a parking space on Vail Street 50 feet south of Campbell Street.

The theft, which occurred between midnight and 7 a.m. Wednesday, was discovered by a village public works employe.

He lets the Chicago White Sox and Cubs baseball teams know if rain clouds will burst over their home games so rain checks can be issued, and he informs road contractors if rain is expected before they begin pouring concrete.

The operators of the Great America amusement park in Gurnee need to know if high winds and stormy weather are headed their way before setting up death-defying roller coaster rides. Ski resorts need advance notice of snow before opening their slopes to anxious skiers.

EVEN PASKISTANI government officials recently employed Finckle to predict the success of this year's cotton crop.

The list of diverse clients seeking Finckle's talents is endless.

Finckle insists his method of predicting the whims of Mother Nature is completely scientific and he never relies on someone's throbbing corn or the thickness of a muskrat's fur to tell him when it will rain or how deep the snowfall will be.

Finckle and his seven-member staff chart the world's upper wind patterns on complex weather maps in the forecasting office at 1098 S. Milwaukee Ave.

COMPUTERS, radar devices and other machines, some connected to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington, D.C. keep the meteorologists informed about world weather conditions.

The forecasting service specializes in Midwest predictions, particularly in the Chicago area.

Finckle, who got his start as a meteorologist in 1945 with the Air Force, makes live broadcasts of the weather every morning and afternoon to Midwestern radio stations, including WIND and WGN in Chicago.

After the predictions are on record, Finckle retires to his office overlooking the runways at the north end of Pal-Waukee Airport and there, he is confronted with the truth of his forecast through ceiling-to-floor windows.

If it's a black, rainy day, and he's predicted sunshine, he's been known to draw the drapes.

"WE'RE USUALLY very accurate about the weather. We try to do our best with the equipment we have and our experienced eye," he said. "Of course, we aren't going to talk about the predictions that didn't pan out."

More often than not, Finckle says he's been right, but getting skeptics to believe his advance notices is quite another thing, he said.

One year, Finckle warned ex-Cubs' manager Leo Durocher that torrents of rain would fall midway through their Sunday baseball game at Wrigley Field.

Between innings, Durocher walked out of the dugout in a bright yellow rain hat and coat, parading around the field mocking Finckle's prediction. By the time he got to first base it was pouring," Finckle said.

OTHERS HAVE taken the weatherman's forecasts to heart. Family barbecues and outings have been postponed, parades have been canceled and even Cubs' games have been rescheduled, as in April 1975 when Chicago was hit by two inches of snow.

Finckle said he didn't know what to expect 15 years ago when he first opened his weather service at the airfield. He was given free office space in exchange for offering free advice to Pal-Waukee pilots.

"The weather in the Chicago area is extremely variable and the number of people who rely on weather conditions to do their work is ever growing. I've learned that," he said.

Police arrest trio on drug counts

Arlington Heights police have arrested three suburban men on charges of possession of drugs valued at more than $1,700.

The first arrest took place when David M. Cleveland, 24, Morton Grove, was stopped for disobeying a traffic signal at Rand and Palatine roads at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Police reportedly found in Cleveland's car: 18.4 grams of cocaine valued at $1,472; tablets of amphetamines valued at $113; 11 tablets of LSD valued at $110; and 24 grams of marijuana valued at $15.

Police charged Cleveland with disobeying a red light and four counts of drug possession.

Detectives then telephoned a room at the Clayton House Motel, at 1090 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

POLICE SAID an investigator set up a drug sale with William D. Terry, 18, of 1624 E. Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, who answered the telephone at the motel room.

An investigator met Terry at 3:30 a.m. Thursday in front of an office building at 1000 S. Milwaukee Ave., and paid Terry $60 for 33 tablets of amphetamines and a quantity of cocaine, police said.

Arlington Heights detectives and a Cook County sheriff's policeman moved in and arrested Terry and an accomplice, Philip N. Norman, 18, of 1882 Wood Ln., Mount Prospect, police said.

Police charged Terry with delivery of a controlled substance, and Norman with possession of 15 grams of marijuana.

Norman was released on $1,000 bond and was ordered to appear Oct. 22 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Cleveland was assigned $25,000 bond, and Terry, $10,000 bond. Both are being held in the Cook County Jail, in lieu of bond, to await a court hearing today in the Arlington Heights court.

Buffalo Grove High homecoming slated

Students and staff members at Buffalo Grove High School will dress to match the theme set for each day during homecoming week beginning Monday with "grub day."

Students also will begin making floats Monday for the parade at 1:45 p.m. on Thursday.

Homecoming queen candidates will be presented Tuesday, "class day," during a school assembly at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday's theme is "western round-up day."

The queen will be crowned on Thursday, "color day," at 1 p.m., directly preceding the parade.

Friday's theme, the '50s, will be emphasized at the 2:40 p.m. pep assembly — "Happy Days — the '50s."

Saturday's activities include a football game against Fremd High School of Palatine at noon and the homecoming dance, "Times of Your Life," at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria, 1101 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Parking meter stolen from Vail Street

Thieves early Wednesday morning stole a parking meter valued at $75 from Vail Street in Arlington Heights, police said.

Police said the thieves stole the one-hour meter, its $10 post and $2 in coins from a parking space on Vail Street 50 feet south of Campbell Street.

The theft, which occurred between midnight and 7 a.m. Wednesday, was discovered by a village public works employe.

Does anybody out there give a damn anymore?

Today

Mike Klein's people

"The Times They Are A-Changin'," wrote Bob Dylan, the white man's guru of meaningful music. All mankind has been awakened, Dylan wrote not long ago during America's horrible years.

Hate to smash your guitar, Mr. Dylan, but it would appear that mankind has fallen asleep in his corner. Ideas translated: Nobody gives a damn. Again.

Apathy that permeates this country from sea to oil slicked sea reared its ugly head Thursday evening at Harper College. The school hosted a guest speaker, William E. Colby. And his audience: 115 persons.

YOU PROBABLY should remember Colby. He's not the stuff that makes ancient history fascinating.

Colby served three turbulent years as director of the Central Intelligence Agency, from 1973-76. But his demise came last November as one victim of President Ford's so-called "Saturday Night Massacre."

It was almost embarrassing Thursday evening. Such a pathetic little turnout heard Colby. Many were not e v e n students. Doesn't anybody care?!!

Perhaps it was the wrong night or wrong school. Who knows for sure? But there were days not long ago when students were seen and heard. Occasionally, they even were known to listen. At least they cared.

A MAN OF Colby's stature would have been a security guard's nightmare six or eight years ago at nearly every college campus across this nation.

Those were America's horrible years. Ones that produced Kent State and Jackson State. The Democratic National Convention in Chicago. Nixon and Agnew. Vietnam. Students for a Democratic Society.

If any glimmer could be seen beneath all that unrest, then it was a growing hope that America's new youth had emerged, a concerned and vibrant youth.

Matt Zukowski is a second year journalism student at Harper. He surveyed the small crowd Thursday night and tried to describe the hopelessness of it all.

"I GUESS THE feeling is, 'So what?' " Matt said. "He (Colby) was in during Nixon's administration. They probably feel it's not worth it. They're all fools, especially something like the CIA."

Mark Filosa is another second year journalism student. While Colby sugarcoated the CIA, and intelligence operations in general, Mark worked on another question: Where were all those newly awakened people?

"You've got to remember that some of the kids who come here don't even want to be in college," Mark said. "Their parents want them here. They're just playing their parents' song.

"If this was somewhere else, it would be packed. If Daniel Schorr came here it would be packed, but there wouldn't be too many kids," Mark said.

"THESE AREN'T your ordinary university students. Sometimes it disappoints me," he said. "I'm not saying that all people here are apathetic, but you still see a lot of Mickey Mouse stuff."

Colby arrived at Harper shortly before 4 p.m. when he participated in a videotape question-and-answer session with faculty members.

A short press conference preceded his formal remarks to the small gathering. Throughout it all, Colby proved to be a spectacular CIA public relations ambassador.

You'd almost think that recent congressional investigations into the CIA were just so much poking around in the dark.

COLBY ALLUDED to "a high degree of sensationalism" which he said prevailed after charges of CIA assassination plots, domestic tampering, illegal letters searches and many other questions that were raised.

Rest safe, fellow Americans. William E. Colby said Thirsday night his old CIA chums are following all the lays now. Gee, that's great, Bill.

The more important lesson here concerns apathy. Disinterest will just open the doors for more CIAs and Watergates. It would be nice to think that future Americans will not be taken for those long rides.

However, nobody can save us except ourselves. Apparently very few of us even care that much.

State's attorney closes probe of Lahti, Harper

by JOHN N. FRANK

The Cook County state's attorney's office has found "no evidence warranting criminal prosecution" of Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti or Harper's board of trustees and closed its six-week investigation, a spokesman for the state's attorney said Thursday.

State's attorney personnel interviewed Lahti, employes of Harper's public safety department and David Tomchek, regional coordinator of the Illinois Education Assn. in response to a letter from Tomchek asking for an investigation of alleged violations of the Illinois Open Meeting Act and college policy.

"All the agencies or individuals that have reviewed the facts have reached the same conclusion and that should close the case," Lahti said Thursday.

TWO SPECIAL trustee committees formed to investigate Lahti's use of college vehicles for private business, flying first class at college expense and college investment policy found no violations of college policy by Lahti.

Tomchek said he "still thinks there is a matter of public trust involved and I still think that has been violated."

Trustee Robert Rausch said the conclusion of the state's attorney was "just more evidence to support the fact that the college is being run in a proper manner."

Rausch chaired the committee which found that Lahti's admitted use of college vehicles for private business did not represent a "pattern of abuse."

BOARD PRES. Shirley Munson said the findings of the state's attorney removed any burden of guilt from Lahti and members of the board.

The Herald reported in July that board members took part in 24 unannounced meetings in the last 1½ years. Rausch's committee determined the majority of those meetings were prenegotiations meetings which legally do not have to be announced and open to the public.

Besides the use of campus vehicles and first class air travel, Tomchek had requested an investigation of a possible conflict of interest on Lahti's part concerning his seat on the board of directors of the Bank of Elk Grove, where the college has accounts.

David Cuprisin, a spokesman for the state's attorney's office, would not comment on findings in this area, saying he wanted to avoid rehashing the allegations involved.

State's attorney closes probe of Lahti, Harper

by JOHN N. FRANK

The Cook County state's attorney's office has found "no evidence warranting criminal prosecution" of Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti or Harper's board of trustees and closed its six-week investigation, a spokesman for the state's attorney said Thursday.

State's attorney personnel interviewed Lahti, employes of Harper's public safety department and David Tomchek, regional coordinator of the Illinois Education Assn. in response to a letter from Tomchek asking for an investigation of alleged violations of the Illinois Open Meeting Act and college policy.

"All the agencies or individuals that have reviewed the facts have reached the same conclusion and that should close the case," Lahti said Thursday.

TWO SPECIAL trustee committees formed to investigate Lahti's use of college vehicles for private business, flying first class at college expense and college investment policy found no violations of college policy by Lahti.

Tomchek said he "still thinks there is a matter of public trust involved and I still think that has been violated."

Trustee Robert Rausch said the conclusion of the state's attorney was "just more evidence to support the fact that the college is being run in a proper manner."

Rausch chaired the committee which found that Lahti's admitted use of college vehicles for private business did not represent a "pattern of abuse."

BOARD PRES. Shirley Munson said the findings of the state's attorney removed any burden of guilt from Lahti and members of the board.

The Herald reported in July that board members took part in 24 unannounced meetings in the last 1½ years. Rausch's committee determined the majority of those meetings were prenegotiations meetings which legally do not have to be announced and open to the public.

Besides the use of campus vehicles and first class air travel, Tomchek had requested an investigation of a possible conflict of interest on Lahti's part concerning his seat on the board of directors of the Bank of Elk Grove, where the college has accounts.

David Cuprisin, a spokesman for the state's attorney's office, would not comment on findings in this area, saying he wanted to avoid rehashing the allegations involved.

The way we see it

Palatine needs solid campaign

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones started local political speculation swirling anew when he announced he will not be a candidate for reelection.

Jones' announcement has given challengers ample time to present themselves as potential new leaders of that village, and we are hopeful that several candidates will surface during the coming months. If that happens, Palatine will remain a hotbed of issue-oriented campaigning at the local level.

As Jones is well aware, much can happen before the April balloting, and because he has been so intimately involved in local affairs, it is not unreasonable to believe he might reconsider his decision. At this early date, it seems premature to write Jones' political obituary despite his insistence that his decision is final.

Regardless, we must credit Jones for being a significant force in local elections — particularly in 1973 when he waged an aggressive campaign based upon a platform of issues.

As well, the Republican Organization of Palatine Township often has spawned dissent which has forced Republicans into the political arena to face voters as independents.

All this has been healthy for Palatine politics.

Trustee Bryan Coughlin said this week that he is having little success in his effort to find new faces to present to the local Republican convention in December. But as has been shown before, the Republican convention is not the only avenue available to potential candidates.

Local elections should not be decided among precinct captains and persons designated as Republican representatives from certain areas of the community.

The election should be decided in April, long after the Republican convention in Palatine and after issues are debated among the candidates. The electorate in Palatine should not be faced with the best of the Republicans but the best representative from all of Palatine.

We are hopeful that again next year, Palatine's political arena will be the scene of a hard fought campaign, in which candidates are forced to present themselves and their positions to the people of Palatine.

During the past several years, Palatine voters have been treated to grassroots campaigning, and as a result they have been better informed about the candidates and their issues. It will be to the benefit of the electorate if 1977 is the same kind of election year.

Ford wrong about guns

During his swing through the Deep South, President Gerald R. Ford assumed a strong stance against gun control that included his promise to never allow federal legislation requiring the registration or confiscation of guns.

Although his position received a warm reception from his audience, we believe the President sacrificed common sense for popularity.

With thousands of Americans dying each year because guns are so easy to come by, it is obvious that hand gun control legislation is needed on the national level. Gun control cannot be effective on the local or state level; it would merely leave the door open for people to go to the next county or across the state line to purchase firearms.

'Mistake' almost caused boil over

Suburban Demo split still hot item

by WANDALYN RICE
(A News Analysis)

Ordinarily, notices of political organization meetings sent to organization members and the press are about as controversial as mail addressed to "occupant."

It is a measure of the current tension between "regular" and independent Democrats in the Northwest suburbs that a notice for the Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization meeting last week nearly precipitated an organization crisis.

The notice was a harmless looking hand-written appeal for attendance at the organization's Friday candidate's night. It was on Elk Grove Democratic organization stationery with one small difference — the stationery did not list the name of Elk Grove committeeman William Rose.

The absence of Rose's name from the letterhead and the fact that he already had sent out a meeting notice over his own signature, which went to many of the same people receiving the anonymous notices, caused consternation.

Ever since Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and Democratic Cook County Chairwoman Jane Byrne began earlier this year encouraging Democratic clubs in townships where the regular suburban organizations were not considered "regular" enough, tension has been building in suburban Democratic organizations which might be targets of new clubs.

Rose and the Elk Grove organization have been considered from the outset of the Daley drive in the suburbs to be a possible target of "regular" wrath. Few of the officials of the organization hold patronage jobs, and the group regularly allows so-called independent Democrats to speak. During the primary campaign, both the regular Daley-backed slate and those backed by Gov. Daniel Walker appeared at organization meetings.

Because of this, many Elk Grove Democrats, including Rose, jumped to the conclusion the anonymous meeting notice was a signal of some plot by Daley-led Democrats to undermine Rose.

Suspicion gazed momentarily at Joan Brennan, candidate for the Illinois House in the third district and a member of the Elk Grove organization.

Brennan, after all, is mounting a campaign against State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, an independent Democrat who has incurred the anger of Daley regulars.

Brennan makes her own affiliations clear. She says she is a "regular" Democrat and anyone else is not "independent" but "irregular." And, Brennan says, "I won't buy irregular merchandise at the store, why should anyone buy it in politics?"

Just before the Elk Grove Democrats convened, Rose, clearly agitated by the sudden appearance of the extra meeting notice, said he was going to "confront" the issue and demand to know where it came from.

Then, suddenly, the crisis was over. The "extra" notice had been sent out by a diligent woman who has recently started helping Rose with party affairs. She just happened to get hold of the wrong stationery.

The meeting proceeded smoothly, with judicial candidates giving brief speeches and a final barbed exchange between Chapman and Brennan.

The incident was ended and Rose was apparently in no immediate jeopardy of being the next committeeman challenged by the Daley organization.

But the tensions that caused the near-crisis in the Elk Grove Organization remain, just as they remain in other groups where suburban Democrats get together and look over their shoulders toward Chicago and the "Boss."

Right to lifers are heard but it isn't stopping those with a cause

Two weeks ago we read that Operation Nutrition, a food supplement program for the poor designed to meet the greater nutritional needs of pregnant women and young children, had been cancelled because of lack of funds. This week we find that impoverished women are not to have access to the full range of medical services either, unless they are willing to take the time and spend the money to prove to the government that their lives are in danger. Since the death rate for impoverished women in childbirth and newborns of the poor is double the death rate for the nonpoor; it can be argued that any indigent pregnant woman is at risk medically. The real intent of the medicaid restriction on abortion is to deny a class of women the access to the same quality of medical care that other women have.

In 1971, Mary Treadwell Berry, an activist for black self-help, said, "The legislators of this country are overwhelmingly male and overwhelmingly white. While rejecting legal abortion, these very men sit in hypocritical splendor and refuse to provide an adequate guaranteed income for those children born to women without financial and social access to legal abortion. While rejecting legal abortion, these very men refuse to fund quality, inexpensive, pre-natal and post-natal care to women without access to abortion. While rejecting legal abortion, these very men refuse to fund quality education and training for the children of the woman without access to abortion."

"Black people cannot afford to have their personal freedom imposed upon by religious tenets or rhetoric. Let no church dare to define womb life to men when every day I see black life defiled, maimed and killed both physically and psychologically. Let no preacher ask me to religiously consider unborn life when I question the wisdom of introducing another black baby into life in white America. I question this wisdom in the name of all our unborn George Jacksons. I'll stay out of church, if the church stays out of my bed."

This anger hasn't disappeared simply because gangs of "right to lifers" have temporarily succeeded in drowning it out. It is a matter of how long we can continue to pay the high cost of keeping the poor "in their place" in ever fewer unskilled jobs and on public aid.

Another opinion on TM program

I am writing in response to an article which appeared in the "World of Religion" column on Saturday, Sept. 11. In the past, The Herald has consistently provided very accurate and factual coverage of the Transcendental Meditation program. However, as a teacher of the Transcendental Meditation (TM) technique, I would like to clarify a few points which were covered in this recent article.

The Transcendental Meditation program does not involve any religious practice. Over 2,000 residents of the Northwest suburbs, including priests, pastors and rabbis, practice the program and find that the technique only helps to strengthen their own religious beliefs and cultural values.

Scientific research has demonstrated that the TM technique provides deep rest to the body, thus eliminating stress and tension. As doctors and scientists are reporting by eliminating stress through the natural, easy and effective technology of the TM program, the very cause of anxiety and disease is eliminated. The TM program is "quick and easy," but it is in no way temporary relief. Research has repeatedly shown that the results are immediate and permanent. Through regular practice of the Transcendental Meditation technique, enlightenment, or full potential of the individual, is systematically developed. Thus problems such as anxiety, or any psychological or physiological weakness, are permanently eliminated.

More support for police Cpl. O'Malley

It would seem that Ald. Huddleston believes there are rules with double standards in Rolling Meadows. Those for ordinary citizens and others for aldermen and their families.

Granted, his son needed a ride home. Under the circumstances, why didn't he make arrangements with someone attending the baseball meeting to give him a ride home, since they were probably leaving city hall at the same time the boy was?

Cpl. Brian O'Malley did not fail in his duty. As a police officer he followed orders. As a police officer and a person Brian O'Malley is one of Rolling Meadows' finest.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Bob Cooney of the Rolling Meadows Fire Dept. for the splendid way of handling what could have been a major problem.

The pictures and lectures that Bob Cooney presented to our children taught them the hazards of playing with fire and we know they have stopped playing with matches.

We are sure that if more people would step forward and ask for help, a lot of lives and property could be saved.

The way we see it

Palatine needs solid campaign

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones started local political speculation swirling anew when he announced he will not be a candidate for reelection.

Jones' announcement has given challengers ample time to present themselves as potential new leaders of that village, and we are hopeful that several candidates will surface during the coming months. If that happens, Palatine will remain a hotbed of issue-oriented campaigning at the local level.

As Jones is well aware, much can happen before the April balloting, and because he has been so intimately involved in local affairs, it is not unreasonable to believe he might reconsider his decision. At this early date, it seems premature to write Jones' political obituary despite his insistence that his decision is final.

Regardless, we must credit Jones for being a significant force in local elections — particularly in 1973 when he waged an aggressive campaign based upon a platform of issues.

As well, the Republican Organization of Palatine Township often has spawned dissent which has forced Republicans into the political arena to face voters as independents.

All this has been healthy for Palatine politics.

Trustee Bryan Coughlin said this week that he is having little success in his effort to find new faces to present to the local Republican convention in December. But as has been shown before, the Republican convention is not the only avenue available to potential candidates.

Local elections should not be decided among precinct captains and persons designated as Republican representatives from certain areas of the community.

The election should be decided in April, long after the Republican convention in Palatine and after issues are debated among the candidates. The electorate in Palatine should not be faced with the best of the Republicans but the best representative from all of Palatine.

We are hopeful that again next year, Palatine's political arena will be the scene of a hard fought campaign, in which candidates are forced to present themselves and their positions to the people of Palatine.

During the past several years, Palatine voters have been treated to grassroots campaigning, and as a result they have been better informed about the candidates and their issues. It will be to the benefit of the electorate if 1977 is the same kind of election year.

Ford wrong about guns

During his swing through the Deep South, President Gerald R. Ford assumed a strong stance against gun control that included his promise to never allow federal legislation requiring the registration or confiscation of guns.

Although his position received a warm reception from his audience, we believe the President sacrificed common sense for popularity.

With thousands of Americans dying each year because guns are so easy to come by, it is obvious that hand gun control legislation is needed on the national level. Gun control cannot be effective on the local or state level; it would merely leave the door open for people to go to the next county or across the state line to purchase firearms.

'Mistake' almost caused boil over

Suburban Demo split still hot item

by WANDALYN RICE
(A News Analysis)

Ordinarily, notices of political organization meetings sent to organization members and the press are about as controversial as mail addressed to "occupant."

It is a measure of the current tension between "regular" and independent Democrats in the Northwest suburbs that a notice for the Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization meeting last week nearly precipitated an organization crisis.

The notice was a harmless looking hand-written appeal for attendance at the organization's Friday candidate's night. It was on Elk Grove Democratic organization stationery with one small difference — the stationery did not list the name of Elk Grove committeeman William Rose.

The absence of Rose's name from the letterhead and the fact that he already had sent out a meeting notice over his own signature, which went to many of the same people receiving the anonymous notices, caused consternation.

Ever since Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and Democratic Cook County Chairwoman Jane Byrne began earlier this year encouraging Democratic clubs in townships where the regular suburban organizations were not considered "regular" enough, tension has been building in suburban Democratic organizations which might be targets of new clubs.

Rose and the Elk Grove organization have been considered from the outset of the Daley drive in the suburbs to be a possible target of "regular" wrath. Few of the officials of the organization hold patronage jobs, and the group regularly allows so-called independent Democrats to speak. During the primary campaign, both the regular Daley-backed slate and those backed by Gov. Daniel Walker appeared at organization meetings.

Because of this, many Elk Grove Democrats, including Rose, jumped to the conclusion the anonymous meeting notice was a signal of some plot by Daley-led Democrats to undermine Rose.

Suspicion gazed momentarily at Joan Brennan, candidate for the Illinois House in the third district and a member of the Elk Grove organization.

Brennan, after all, is mounting a campaign against State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, an independent Democrat who has incurred the anger of Daley regulars.

Brennan makes her own affiliations clear. She says she is a "regular" Democrat and anyone else is not "independent" but "irregular." And, Brennan says, "I won't buy irregular merchandise at the store, why should anyone buy it in politics?"

Just before the Elk Grove Democrats convened, Rose, clearly agitated by the sudden appearance of the extra meeting notice, said he was going to "confront" the issue and demand to know where it came from.

Then, suddenly, the crisis was over. The "extra" notice had been sent out by a diligent woman who has recently started helping Rose with party affairs. She just happened to get hold of the wrong stationery.

The meeting proceeded smoothly, with judicial candidates giving brief speeches and a final barbed exchange between Chapman and Brennan.

The incident was ended and Rose was apparently in no immediate jeopardy of being the next committeeman challenged by the Daley organization.

But the tensions that caused the near-crisis in the Elk Grove Organization remain, just as they remain in other groups where suburban Democrats get together and look over their shoulders toward Chicago and the "Boss."

Gold still a high-risk investment

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

A variation on an erstwhile popular song: "Where have all the gold bugs gone. Grown men crying . . ."

An ounce of gold has plummeted in price from its near $200 high at the start of 1975, when it became legal again for Americans to own it, to less than $110 by late summer of this year. And that drop in value doesn't take into account the cost of commissions, appraisals, storage and delivery charges; nor does it account for the fact that the owner of a chunk of gold earns not a cent on his investment in interest or dividends.

And now, with gold seemingly so low in price — at least as compared with its earlier high — investors are starting to wonder again if it might not be a good deal. And if not gold itself, what about the stock in companies that mine gold, many of which are also severely depressed in price compared to a year or two ago?

I SAID IT before, and I'll say it again: Gold is an extremely speculative commodity, producing no income, and subject to totally unpredictable world forces. As for mining stocks: their prices tend to follow the price of gold itself, in spite of the fact that many of them are diversified and not that dependent on gold for their income. In short, it's all still very much a crapshoot. Here are some of the factors that contribute to the odds.

• Is gold really low in relation to its previous high? Or is it still very high in relation to its previous low, which was the $40 range for many years? There is no consensus, which means flip a coin. The extreme upward climb from 1972 to 1974 was not prompted by actual market demands for gold as much as it was by wild-eyed speculation on the part of the gold bugs and their devotees. Contrary to what the gold bugs preached, the end of the world did not arrive, and paper currencies are still in vogue. The climb to the $200 level was, then, largely an artificial boost.

• World forces intervened, and likely will continue to do so. Russia, needing wheat, cashed in huge gold resources to pay for it. South Africa, whence much of the gold comes, continues to face strife, which could distort the normal production flow of the metal. The United States, wishing to minimize the role of gold as a form of international currency, auctions off large stockpiles to the highest bidder. Likewise, the International Monetary Fund auctions off portions of its supply, purportedly to provide money for poorer nations.

• Meanwhile, the international clout of gold diminishes in comparison with the newly emerging power of oil and wheat as trade bait among nations.

Considering these imponderables, plus the fact that the costs of investment and loss of use of your money require about a 20 per cent per year increase in the value of gold for you to break even, gold would have no glitter for the prudent investor.

Stock market slump in third day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investor jitters over the nation's money supply drove prices lower Thursday for the third consecutive session in the slowest trading in nearly four weeks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The fears proved unfounded because the Federal Reserve Board reported after the market closed the nation's basic money supply fell a record $2.8 billion in the latest reporting week, following a record $4.5 billion surge the week before.

In the uncertainty prior to the report, the Dow Jones industrial average fell one point to 990.19, bringing its three-day loss to 22.94 points. It had been off nearly four points at one time.

THE NYSE common stock index lost 0.07 to 56.23 Thursday and the average price of a common share decreased four cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.13 to 105.24.

Declines edged advances, 748 to 618, among the 1,866 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 14,700,000 shares, down from the 18,090,000 traded Wednesday. It was the slowest turnover since 13,277,200 shares changed hands Sept. 3.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex market value index lost 0.32 to 101.95, but there was no change in the price of a common share. Volume totaled 1,680,000 shares, compared with 1,770,000 traded Wednesday.

Price of raw farm products dips 0.5%

Sharp price declines in meat commodities, potatoes, wheat and oranges offset good gains in other areas to push the average of all raw farm product prices down by 0.5 per cent for the month-sending Sept. 15, the U.S. Agriculture Dept. reported Thursday. Higher prices were reported for soybeans, cotton and milk to offset what otherwise would have been a continuation of a sharp price decline which began to decline last month after a July hiatus. Last month's decline was the steepest for a single month in two years. Before July the average for all farm product prices had increased for three consecutive months.

800 at Deere plant walk off jobs

About 800 United Auto Workers walked off their jobs at Deere and Co. in East Moline Thursday, 12 hours before a contract covering 27,000 workers in six states was due to expire. UAW officials said the walkout was in defiance of union orders. Union negotiators remained closeted with Deere in efforts to reach a new contract before the old pact ran out at midnight. Earlier Thursday, UAW Vice President Pat Greathouse, chief negotiator for the union, said the situation remains "fluid."

S&H redemption center opens

Ribboncutting ceremonies were held Thursday at the new S&H Green Stamp redemption center, 56 W. Wilson St., Palatine. Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones and other civic leaders participated in the event. Maureen O'Meara, manager of the new outlet, said the store will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The Palatine outlet is the fourth Chicago area S&H redemption store opened during 1976. There are 500 S&H redemption centers nationwide, said zone manager Norm Yager. More than 470 retailers in Illinois offer S&H stamps.

Pound rally fails to stick

The troubled British pound rallied briefly Thursday on foreign exchange markets but tumbled back again to close the day at another loss. The pound opened at $1.6650 and with a boost from government plans to seek a $3.9 billion international loan soared more than 3 cents to $1.70. However, as buying interest fell off, the pound's earlier gains were wiped out and it closed at $1.6610.

Progress in strike at Ford?

Ford Motor Co. officials Thursday continued to emphasize privately that some progress is being made to end the 16-day-old stike by 170,000 workers against the No. 2 U.S. auto company. But at least one United Auto Workers source said the firm's optimism was little more than a public relations gesture and said many items are yet to be resolved before there is agreement on a new contract.

U.S. ups milk price support

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has increased the milk price support level paid to farmers by .13 cents to $8.26 per hundredweight, effective today. Higher processing costs account for higher margin also paid to milk processing plants. The adjustments "will give some needed price assurance to dairy farmers," said Patrick B. Healey, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation. John Loss, a spokesman for Chicago Milk Distributors firm in Cicero, said he has not been notified by suppliers that the government pricing changes will affect retail costs.

EFFECTIVE THROUGH OCTOBER 30, 1976

It's true, while everything else is going up, the Autumn leaves and First's new auto loan rates have come tumbling down. The First National Bank of Des Plaines has lowered auto loan rates on all new 1976 and 1977 models. Effective through October 30, 1976.

And that's not all. At First, you see the full loan cost — to the penny — before you sign. No surprises afterwards. And we'll fit your repayment schedule to your budget.

You can also count on First for low cost credit life insurance and monthly payments that can be automatically deducted from your checking account. You can even arrange a loan before you go car-shopping so you can grab a good deal on the spot.

With the way things have been going up lately, it's about time something came down. So stop in soon and take advantage of it. See us for low used car loan rates, too.

JUDITH GUEST has never taken a writing course: "They're too intimidating," she says. "You can do anything you want if you do it well." She ought to know . . . her "Ordinary People" is a best-selling novel that's won rave reviews and instant fame for the suburban housewife-turned author who is a former Palatine resident.

Judith Guest: her life now far from 'ordinary'

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

Judith Guest comes on just like the mom next door.

Dressed in a comfortable pantsuit and furtively puffing a cigaret ("don't get this in the photo," she pleads with a grin, "my son would kill me"), the 40-year-old housewife sprinkles her conversation with other people's quotes and stories about her grocery shopping.

She fondly remembers the good times in her Palatine neighborhood, loves Erma Bombeck and says she couldn't stand living in New York because "that's not the world that interests me."

She is, in fact, ordinary — yet as the author of the best-selling novel "Ordinary People," she is enjoying a success that's anything but. The gripping story of a sensitive 17-year-old boy's comeback from a suicide attempt and eight-month mental hospital stay has brought her a cool $1 million and the fame to match. But the mother of three sons, still treats interviewers like neighbors in for coffee, and autograph requests are granted with thoughtfulness and a smile.

MS. GUEST'S TALE is enough to make all the closet writers in America dig out their Smith-Coronas and pound away. "Ordinary People," her first completed novel (she put away two others to finish it), is the first unsolicited manuscript Viking Press has accepted in 17 years. It's been picked up by five book clubs. Ballantine Paperbacks bought it for $635,000. And after he sent her a fan letter, Robert Redford successfully negotiated for the film rights.

Not bad for a former teacher whose only professional writing experience was as a part-time stringer for The Arlington Heights Herald back in 1967 and '68. Although Ms. Guest recalls a few library board meetings and a hand in the "Winston Party Line," a Palatine neighborhood column, she quickly admits she wasn't an ace reporter.

"It was good training, but I wasn't any good at it because I hated to ask questions about people's private lives," she says with a sheepish grin.

MS. GUEST'S ABILITY to probe the lives of her own characters has earned her novel rave reviews and comparisons to "Catcher in the Rye." She describes a suburban family's tentative adjustments to personal disaster with crisp emotionalism, and scenes like young Conrad's agonized encounter with a pretty new soprano bring back our own high school hallways with painful clarity.

The novel is filled with snatches of thought, the kind that Ms. Guest says "are my thoughts, too," and she sets a mood with prose that attracts readers — "like the hole in your mouth where your tooth was and you cannot keep your tongue from playing with it."

Some critics see the book, set in suburban Lake Forest with a tax attorney father and a tennis-playing mother, as a statement about suburbia and its lifestyle. But while the novel has plenty of references to expensive Mexican jackets and Christmas vacations in Europe, Ms. Guest emphatically denies a preoccupation with the "boonies."

"I'M A CHILD OF suburbia. I've read a lot of books on the subject, but I couldn't relate to them," she says. "I was just trying to make it seem real . . . everybody has problems no matter what class they're in. We're not so different from one another.

"Sure, there's a lot of plasticity here. Achievements for achievement's sake alone. But it's still a good life . . . all the good friends I have live in the suburbs, and I'm happy where I am," she adds with a toss of her short dark hair.

Ms. Guest does admit to a few kinks in her happiness. The hullabaloo is beginning to take its toll, and the good-natured lady from Edina, Minn., is finding herself "anxious to get back home."

"Giving all these interviews hurts a little," she says. "I'm constantly giving away pieces of myself, and I'm not as tired of it as I am afraid that I'll give it all away and have nothing left for myself."

SHE SAYS SHE'S looking forward to cooking dinners again, to catching up on her "passion for words." But, most of all, she's eager to get back to her typewriter, this time, a novel set in Detroit.

One of the many quotes about writing that adorn her study is by Herbert Gold. Like him, she writes "to master my experience."

"I think everyone has a human need to control," she muses. "Writing gives me that. I can sit down at my typewriter, invent these people, and tell them what to do . . . and do it! It's great."

Great for Judith Guest — and even greater for her readers.

Composer Bernard Herrmann

His music made movies come alive

by TOM VON MALDER

"I feel music on the screen can seek out and intensify the inner thoughts of the characters. It can invest a scene with terror, grandeur, gaiety or misery. It can propel the narrative swiftly forward or slow it down.

"It often lifts mere dialogue into the realm of poetry. Finally, it is the communicating link between the screen and the audience, reaching out and enveloping all into one single experience."

That was how Bernard Herrmann, often called the Wagner of film music, described his craft before his death last Christmas Eve. His career, studded with more brilliance than that of a dozen ordinary film composers, stretched from the landmark "Citizen Kane" (1941) to the recently released "Obsession."

Herrmann's skill was in creating rich musical tapesties with full orchestral colors. The music was so well blended with the film, it often became overlooked. Too, he created unusual sound combinations, such as the string-only orchestra for "Psycho" (1960) and the electronics of "The Day the Earth Stood Still" (1951) and "Journey To the Center of the Earth" (1959).

HERRMANN'S TRAINING was in the classics, studying composition at New York University and the Juilliard School. In his early post-graduate days he was composing ballet and founded the critically successful New Chamber Orchestra. Before going to Hollywood, he had completed a symphony, a violin concerto and a cantata based on Herman Melville's "Moby Dick."

His love of the classics would never leave, and in later life Herrmann championed many young composers and helped rescue from obscurity the works of Charles Ives and romantic symphonists Raff and Gade. But becoming a staff conductor for CBS radio in the late '30s initiated the shift in Herrmann's career toward the movies.

At CBS Herrmann worked with Orson Welles as musical director for the Mercury Theater (including the famed "War of the Worlds" broadcast). This led to his scoring "Citizen Kane," "The Magnificent Ambersons" (1942) and "Jane Eyre" (1942) for Welles.

THE "CITIZEN KANE" score with its use of leitmotif (recurring musical themes) — the four-note brass figure for Kane's power and the vibraphone solo for Rosebud — became an instant classic and won Herrmann an Academy Award nomination. The score also demonstrated Herrmann's skill in writing music for photographic montages.

Herrmann did not win an Oscar for "Citizen Kane," but he did win one the same year for "All That Money Can Buy," a film based on "The Devil and Daniel Webster." The score contained one of his first uses of electronics, a singing telephone wire for the devil's sound effect, as well as strings to build suspense.

Throughout the following years, Herrmann's output was huge and diversified. There was the discordant score for "Hangover Square" (1945), the romantic "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" (1947), "Anna and the King of Siam" (1946 and a third Oscar nomination), the strong orchestration for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" (1952), "Garden of Evil" (1954) and "Beneath the Twelve Mile Reef" (1953).

HE BECAME associated with fantasy movies, including "The Seventh Voyage of Sinbad" (1958), "The Three Worlds of Gulliver" (1960), "Jason and the Argonauts" (1963), "Mysterious Island" (1961) and "Fantasia." In all he was able to bring the fantastic creatures and events to life through his music.

In 1956, Herrmann began one of his most famous collaborations, with Alfred Hitchcock. It lasted for eight straight films, culminating in "North By Northwest" and "Psycho" but included "The Trouble With Harry," "The Man Who Knew Too Much" (with a cameo appearance by Herrmann as a conductor), "Vertigo," "The Wrong Man" and "Marnie." He created electronic simulations of bird cries and wing-flapping for "The Birds."

The great years with Hitchock broke down when in 1966 Hitchock rejected Herrmann's score for "Torn Curtain" in favor of John Addison's music, because the studio executives were looking for a more commercial score, one they could make money on with a soundtrack album.

IT WAS WHEN THIS same lust for commercialism swept over the movie music industry and led to numerous pop scores that Herrmann resigned from the Motion Picture Academy, saying he would rather be judged by his peers than his inferiors.

He then continued to go his own way, still creating great music, including "Taxi Driver" and "Obsession," his last two scores. Now the talk is he may be nominated for Oscars for both films, breaking the long drought in nominations since 1946.

The posthumous tribute would not have impressed Herrmann. He wrote for the audience who sits in the theater watching the films, not for the critics.

. . . Albums hard to find

Despite the critical acclaim and genius of Bernard Herrmann's musical scores, little of his work is available on record.

United Artists has reissued some of the early classics, including "Citizen Kane," and you can still find copies of "The Egyptian" in the bargain bins, but newer works are unavailable. For example, "Sisters" (1973) and "The Night Digger" (1971), both considered strong, effective scores, are hidden away with their films.

Since Herrmann's death, Arista has issued "Taxi Driver" and London has issued "Obsession."

IN THE THREE years prior to his death, London allowed Herrmann to conduct several of his more important film pieces. The albums, which are still available, include "The Fantasy Film World of Bernard Herrmann," "The Mysterious Film World of Bernard Herrmann," "Music From the Great Classics" and "Music From the Great Film Thrillers" (an all-Hitchcock collection), as well as a sampler "Bernard Herrmann Conducts Psycho and Other Film Scores."

One hopes that record companies will bargain with film companies to issue some of his forgotten scores and reissue the long unavailable albums, such as "The Seventh Voyage of Sinbad" valued at $200 and "Vertigo" at $100.

Loretta Haggers makes album under real name

Playback
by Tom Von Malder

Life does imitate art. Would-be country superstar Loretta Haggers of the "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" television soap opera has released an album of progressive country music under her real-life name of Mary Kay Place.

"Tonite! At the Capri Lounge Loretta Haggers" (Columbia records) is more than just a quick cash-in on new-found fame. Place has talent and an enthusiasm that bubbles through this album. And she has the strong musical support of Emmylou Harris' backup band, as well as the vocal support of Harris, Dolly Parton and Anne Murray.

The highlights of the album have to be the two songs Place wrote herself and introduced on TV — "Vitamin L" (the vitamin her mother never told her about) and "Baby Boy" (her husband Charlie in the series). It is fitting that "Baby Boy" has just been released as her first single, as it was on television.

The rest of the album is a good mix of generally uptempo music, with a little bit of swing and gospel. "Coke and Chips," Parton's "All I Can Do" and "Have a Little Talk With Jesus" are other strong songs.

Look for Loretta Haggers to be reading the Billboard album charts this season as her real-life album moves up the charts.

Other new releases include:

• "Hasten Down the Wind" by Linda Ronstadt (Asylum). This contains her typical, skillfully done batch of brokenhearted ballads, written in part by Ry Cooder, Warren Zevon and Willie Nelson. There's even a Spanish song, "Lo Siento Mi Vida," and the torchy "Crazy." The rejuvenated oldie, "That'll Be the Day," was the single. Peter Asher's production, as usual, lends beauty to the music.

• "All I Can Do" by Dolly Parton (RCA). A fine, bright collection aimed at the pop market as well as her legion of country fans, this album has eight new Parton tunes, including "Preacher Tom" and "I'm A Drifter." Also Merle Haggard and Emmylou Harris each contribute a song.

• "Diamond In the Rough" by Jessi Colter (Capitol). Simmering sultry ballads sung huskily and mournfully make up the bulk of this excellent album, but there are funky, countrified versions of two Beatles' songs, "Get Back" and "Hey Jude," to liven the pace. Waylon Jennings is among the solid group of musicians who help out.

• "Hard Rain" by Bob Dylan (Columbia). Dylan's second live album is not a soundtrack from the recent television special. Only four songs from the show are among the album's nine songs and, except for Mick Ronson, the superstar backing is missing. Nevertheless, the album is exciting and full of energy, with even the coarseness of sound an asset. The driving version of "Maggie's Farm" and an emotional "I Threw It All Away" stand out.

• "This One's For You" (Arista) is Barry Manilow's best all-round album to date. His uptemp songs, like "Daybreak" and "Jump Shout Boogie," are among his most entertaining. His choice of Randy Edelman's ballad "Weekend In New England" is excellent, as it avoids the sentimental cloyness that has marred his previous work.

• "One More From the Road" by Lynyrd Skynyrd (MCA). This two-record, live set has excellent sound quality. If it weren't for the well deserved applause, you'd think this was a studio album. The song selection covers the band's most familiar work, including "Tuesday's Gone" and the closing scorcher "Free Bird." The band is one of this country's best rockers.

• "The Movies" (Arista). The Movies is a New York band that actually believes in harmonies and pretty melodies (thank goodness, an antidote to The Ramones). "Dancin' On Ice" is the song that grabs the strongest on first hearing, and the group had the chance to sing it last Sunday on NBC TV's "Big Event" which won't hurt its effort to win an audience.

The lyrics are not very meaningful, however. "Empty Room," for example, compares cleaning out an "empty room" (sounds like a trick itself) and washing dishes to forgetting a girl.

Loretta Haggers makes album under real name

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Life does imitate art. Would-be country superstar Loretta Haggers of the "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" television soap opera has released an album of progressive country music under her real-life name of Mary Kay Place.

"Tonite! At the Capri Lounge Loretta Haggers" (Columbia records) is more than just a quick cash-in on new-found fame. Place has talent and an enthusiasm that bubbles through this album. And she has the strong musical support of Emmylou Harris' backup band, as well as the vocal support of Harris, Dolly Parton and Anne Murray.

The highlights of the album have to be the two songs Place wrote herself and introduced on TV — "Vitamin L" (the vitamin her mother never told her about) and "Baby Boy" (her husband Charlie in the series). It is fitting that "Baby Boy" has just been released as her first single, as it was on television.

The rest of the album is a good mix of generally uptempo music, with a little bit of swing and gospel. "Coke and Chips," Parton's "All I Can Do" and "Have a Little Talk With Jesus" are other strong songs.

Look for Loretta Haggers to be reading the Billboard album charts this season as her real-life album moves up the charts.

Other new releases include:

• "Hasten Down the Wind" by Linda Ronstadt (Asylum). This contains her typical, skillfully done batch of brokenhearted ballads, written in part by Ry Cooder, Warren Zevon and Willie Nelson. There's even a Spanish song, "Lo Siento Mi Vida," and the torchy "Crazy." The rejuvenated oldie, "That'll Be the Day," was the single. Peter Asher's production, as usual, lends beauty to the music.

• "All I Can Do" by Dolly Parton (RCA). A fine, bright collection aimed at the pop market as well as her legion of country fans, this album has eight new Parton tunes, including "Preacher Tom" and "I'm A Drifter." Also Merle Haggard and Emmylou Harris each contribute a song.

• "Diamond In the Rough" by Jessi Colter (Capitol). Simmering sultry ballads sung huskily and mournfully make up the bulk of this excellent album, but there are funky, countrified versions of two Beatles' songs, "Get Back" and "Hey Jude," to liven the pace. Waylon Jennings is among the solid group of musicians who help out.

• "Hard Rain" by Bob Dylan (Columbia). Dylan's second live album is not a soundtrack from the recent television special. Only four songs from the show are among the album's nine songs and, except for Mick Ronson, the superstar backing is missing. Nevertheless, the album is exciting and full of energy, with even the coarseness of sound an asset. The driving version of "Maggie's Farm" and an emotional "I Threw It All Away" stand out.

• "This One's For You" (Arista) is Barry Manilow's best all-round album to date. His uptemp songs, like "Daybreak" and "Jump Shout Boogie," are among his most entertaining. His choice of Randy Edelman's ballad "Weekend In New England" is excellent, as it avoids the sentimental cloyness that has marred his previous work.

• "One More From the Road" by Lynyrd Skynyrd (MCA). This two-record, live set has excellent sound quality. If it weren't for the well deserved applause, you'd think this was a studio album. The song selection covers the band's most familiar work, including "Tuesday's Gone" and the closing scorcher "Free Bird." The band is one of this country's best rockers.

• "The Movies" (Arista). The Movies is a New York band that actually believes in harmonies and pretty melodies (thank goodness, an antidote to The Ramones). "Dancin' On Ice" is the song that grabs the strongest on first hearing, and the group had the chance to sing it last Sunday on NBC TV's "Big Event" which won't hurt its effort to win an audience.

The lyrics are not very meaningful, however. "Empty Room," for example, compares cleaning out an "empty room" (sounds like a trick itself) and washing dishes to forgetting a girl.

Worms take over town in newest scare movie

by DAVID DUGAS

There are people who find worms repellent, especially when millions of very big ones are squirming their way across the living room floor. But they are not likely to see a movie promising just that.

It is titled "Squirm," and it presents the remote (and fictional) little town of Fly Creek, Ga., where a powerful summer storm has knocked down power lines, transmitting electricity right into the soaked ground.

That sends crazed worms to the surface where they'd as soon burrow right under your skin as look at you.

Reportedly based on an actual incident, this scare tale focuses on the plight of Don Scardino, a New York resident who is visiting Patricia Pearcy and her family, mother Jean Sullivan and sister Fran Higgins.

NO SOONER has Scardino hit town and bellied up to the town soda fountain than he finds a worm in his chocolate egg cream. In no time at all, worms are popping out of bathroom shower heads, falling down the ceiling and killing off the neighbors.

Scardino gets the movie's best line when he discovered a man's body filled with worms.

"Talk about New York!" says the guy from the Big Apple.

On a fishing trip, Scardino, Pearcy and R. A. Dow, the son of a live bait seller, narrowly miss becoming the main course for the vicious nibblers.

Down's father, (Carl Dagenhart) is not as lucky and becomes a victim of the ravenous bait he markets. Later, the town sheriff (Peter MacLean) and his girlfriend Barbara Quinn are done in by hordes of the creatures who surround them in bed.

THE PERFORMANCES in this bucolic horror story are adequate enough under the direction of Jeff Lieberman, who also wrote the script. Unfortunately the worms become so numerous, filling entire rooms with what looks like animated spaghetti, they are revolting but not convincing. Yet there are a few scenes — worms wggliing thei way under flesh o engulfing withing victims—well calculated to jolt you out of your seat.

"Squirm" is from American International Pictures, which turned a somewhat similar trick with "Frogs" a couple of years ago. It's rated R.

'Swashbuckler' may signal comeback of pirate films

by DICK KLEINER

Hollywood is closely watching the box office record of "The Swashbuckler" to see if it's time for pirate films to make a comeback.

James Goldstone, who directed the film, thinks this is the perfect time. He believes it is attracting viewers of all ages for different reasons.

Adults, he says, remember the pirate films of their youth and will want to see a new one. Younger audiences will be attracted by the message inherent in the pirate film format.

"Pirate films," Goldstone says, "have always been anti-establishment — the heroes are fighting the government, which is always shown to be corrupt and evil.

"THE SWASHBUCKLER" is probably the first film in which a ship gets star billing. Besides Robert Shaw, Genevieve Bujold, James Earl Jones and Beau Bridges, the credits read: "and The Golden Hind as The Blarney Cock."

The Golden Hind is an authentic replica of Sir Francis Drake's pirate ship and well deserves its billing.

Goldstone says the picture is an attempt to do a swashbuckling pirate film as though they never stopped making them, even though there hasn't been a real pirate epic for nearly 40 years. He feels "The Swashbuckler" is how it would be done if they had continued making them.

Thus, it has a modern flavor although the theme and the content are strictly out of the past. You could call it an old-fashioned, new-fangled picture.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association)

"IT WAS ONLY a bottle with a specimen for my doctor," the Mad Bomber (Irwin Corey) tells the car wash owner, Mr. B. (Sully Boyar) as he points to the broken remains. The scene is from Universal Studio's new G-rated comedy "Car Wash," soon to open in Chicago.

Country Players choose new play

"Play It Again, Sam," the Broadway comedy coming to Shady Hill Community House, Barrington, Oct. 15, promises a lot of penetrating humor on the subject of marriage, and some of it may be more truth than fiction, truth about the private life of author Woody Allen.

The Country Players, a community theater group with members in many of the Northwest suburbs, has chosen this play for its first presentation of the season.

Rehearsals are now under way, and anyone interested in working on the production end of the play is welcome. "Play It Again, Sam" will run Friday and Saturday nights the last three weekends of October at the community house, Arch Drive off Kelsey Road, Barrington. Tickets at $3 are available from Pat Honig, 382-1419.

Arts Unlimited looking for talent

"Arts Unlimited 214," the spring arts festival of high school Dist. 214, is searching for talent. Persons who have a skill in the arts and are willing to share it with high school students are urged to contact festival director Richard Calisch at 439-4800.

The festival, which takes place at all eight Dist. 214 high schools, will be held for 31 days during May 1977. It is being billed as "the most complete high school arts festival in the U.S.A."

Arts to be included are architecture, crafts of all kinds, cooking, dance, drama, drawing, fashion, film, literature, music, painting, photography, poetry, print-making, sculpture and others.

The entire festival will be open to the public. Most events will be free.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

Burnt Offerings — Robert Marasco's best-selling gothic potboiler about eerie goings-on at a murderous mansion has been transformed into a silly, uninvolving and drastically overlong movie that seems tailor-made for a late-night TV slot. Stars Karen Black and Oliver Reed. (PG)

"The Shootist" — John Wayne mellows into what may prove the finest role of his career, an aging legendary gunfighter who puts his lifelong ideals in order as he waits out the final seven days of his life. Also stars Lauren Bacall, Ron Howard, James Stewart, Richard Boone (PG).

"The Omen" — Satan is at it again. This time channeling his monstrous powers through the innocent-looking 5-year-old son of politico Gregory Peck and Lee Remick. An extremely handsome production that is well acted and packed with plenty of spine-tingling suspense and chills. Not for the faint of heart. (R).

"Silent Movie" — Mum's the word from Mel Brooks in this big-budget contemporary silent movie that unleashes a cascade of sight gags, pratfalls and broadly comic set pieces, linked to the connecting story of a minor studio's last-ditch efforts to avoid bankruptcy. Stars Mel Brooks, Marty Feldman and Dom Deluise. (PG).

"Futureworld" — Entertaining sequel to 1973's "Westworld," this time starring Peter Fonda and Blythe Danner as a pair of investigative reporters who stumble on a plan to turn world leaders and opinion makers into brainwashed living robots. (PG).

"The Sailor Who Fell From Grace With the Sea" — Offbeat but ponderously played romantic horror story about an English widow (Sarah Miles), an American sailor (Kris Kristofferson) and the gruesome lengths her perversely disturbed son goes to in order to squelch their liaison. (R).

Worms take over town in newest scare movie

by DAVID DUGAS

There are people who find worms repellent, especially when millions of very big ones are squirming their way across the living room floor. But they are not likely to see a movie promising just that.

It is titled "Squirm," and it presents the remote (and fictional) little town of Fly Creek, Ga., where a powerful summer storm has knocked down power lines, transmitting electricity right into the soaked ground.

That sends crazed worms to the surface where they'd as soon burrow right under your skin as look at you.

Reportedly based on an actual incident, this scare tale focuses on the plight of Don Scardino, a New York resident who is visiting Patricia Pearcy and her family, mother Jean Sullivan and sister Fran Higgins.

NO SOONER has Scardino hit town and bellied up to the town soda fountain than he finds a worm in his chocolate egg cream. In no time at all, worms are popping out of bathroom shower heads, falling down the ceiling and killing off the neighbors.

Scardino gets the movie's best line when he discovered a man's body filled with worms.

"Talk about New York!" says the guy from the Big Apple.

On a fishing trip, Scardino, Pearcy and R. A. Dow, the son of a live bait seller, narrowly miss becoming the main course for the vicious nibblers.

Down's father, (Carl Dagenhart) is not as lucky and becomes a victim of the ravenous bait he markets. Later, the town sheriff (Peter MacLean) and his girlfriend Barbara Quinn are done in by hordes of the creatures who surround them in bed.

THE PERFORMANCES in this bucolic horror story are adequate enough under the direction of Jeff Lieberman, who also wrote the script. Unfortunately the worms become so numerous, filling entire rooms with what looks like animated spaghetti, they are revolting but not convincing. Yet there are a few scenes — worms wggliing thei way under flesh o engulfing withing victims—well calculated to jolt you out of your seat.

"Squirm" is from American International Pictures, which turned a somewhat similar trick with "Frogs" a couple of years ago. It's rated R.

'Swashbuckler' may signal comeback of pirate films

by DICK KLEINER

Hollywood is closely watching the box office record of "The Swashbuckler" to see if it's time for pirate films to make a comeback.

James Goldstone, who directed the film, thinks this is the perfect time. He believes it is attracting viewers of all ages for different reasons.

Adults, he says, remember the pirate films of their youth and will want to see a new one. Younger audiences will be attracted by the message inherent in the pirate film format.

"Pirate films," Goldstone says, "have always been anti-establishment — the heroes are fighting the government, which is always shown to be corrupt and evil.

"THE SWASHBUCKLER" is probably the first film in which a ship gets star billing. Besides Robert Shaw, Genevieve Bujold, James Earl Jones and Beau Bridges, the credits read: "and The Golden Hind as The Blarney Cock."

The Golden Hind is an authentic replica of Sir Francis Drake's pirate ship and well deserves its billing.

Goldstone says the picture is an attempt to do a swashbuckling pirate film as though they never stopped making them, even though there hasn't been a real pirate epic for nearly 40 years. He feels "The Swashbuckler" is how it would be done if they had continued making them.

Thus, it has a modern flavor although the theme and the content are strictly out of the past. You could call it an old-fashioned, new-fangled picture.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association)

"IT WAS ONLY a bottle with a specimen for my doctor," the Mad Bomber (Irwin Corey) tells the car wash owner, Mr. B. (Sully Boyar) as he points to the broken remains. The scene is from Universal Studio's new G-rated comedy "Car Wash," soon to open in Chicago.

Country Players choose new play

"Play It Again, Sam," the Broadway comedy coming to Shady Hill Community House, Barrington, Oct. 15, promises a lot of penetrating humor on the subject of marriage, and some of it may be more truth than fiction, truth about the private life of author Woody Allen.

The Country Players, a community theater group with members in many of the Northwest suburbs, has chosen this play for its first presentation of the season.

Rehearsals are now under way, and anyone interested in working on the production end of the play is welcome. "Play It Again, Sam" will run Friday and Saturday nights the last three weekends of October at the community house, Arch Drive off Kelsey Road, Barrington. Tickets at $3 are available from Pat Honig, 382-1419.

Arts Unlimited looking for talent

"Arts Unlimited 214," the spring arts festival of high school Dist. 214, is searching for talent. Persons who have a skill in the arts and are willing to share it with high school students are urged to contact festival director Richard Calisch at 439-4800.

The festival, which takes place at all eight Dist. 214 high schools, will be held for 31 days during May 1977. It is being billed as "the most complete high school arts festival in the U.S.A."

Arts to be included are architecture, crafts of all kinds, cooking, dance, drama, drawing, fashion, film, literature, music, painting, photography, poetry, print-making, sculpture and others.

The entire festival will be open to the public. Most events will be free.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

Burnt Offerings — Robert Marasco's best-selling gothic potboiler about eerie goings-on at a murderous mansion has been transformed into a silly, uninvolving and drastically overlong movie that seems tailor-made for a late-night TV slot. Stars Karen Black and Oliver Reed. (PG)

"The Shootist" — John Wayne mellows into what may prove the finest role of his career, an aging legendary gunfighter who puts his lifelong ideals in order as he waits out the final seven days of his life. Also stars Lauren Bacall, Ron Howard, James Stewart, Richard Boone (PG).

"The Omen" — Satan is at it again. This time channeling his monstrous powers through the innocent-looking 5-year-old son of politico Gregory Peck and Lee Remick. An extremely handsome production that is well acted and packed with plenty of spine-tingling suspense and chills. Not for the faint of heart. (R).

"Silent Movie" — Mum's the word from Mel Brooks in this big-budget contemporary silent movie that unleashes a cascade of sight gags, pratfalls and broadly comic set pieces, linked to the connecting story of a minor studio's last-ditch efforts to avoid bankruptcy. Stars Mel Brooks, Marty Feldman and Dom Deluise. (PG).

"Futureworld" — Entertaining sequel to 1973's "Westworld," this time starring Peter Fonda and Blythe Danner as a pair of investigative reporters who stumble on a plan to turn world leaders and opinion makers into brainwashed living robots. (PG).

"The Sailor Who Fell From Grace With the Sea" — Offbeat but ponderously played romantic horror story about an English widow (Sarah Miles), an American sailor (Kris Kristofferson) and the gruesome lengths her perversely disturbed son goes to in order to squelch their liaison. (R).

ARLINGTON — Arlington Heights — 255-2125 — "The Shootist" (PG).

Riverfront restaurant loaded with atmosphere

Featuring:
Port of Entry

All that was lacking was the sound of fog horns the night my companion and I crossed the gangplank midst swirls of river fog.

Port of Entry, a riverfront restaurant on Rte. 31, one mile north of Rte. 64 in St. Charles, offers what most suburban restaurants lack: an abundance of atmosphere. The food, however, is unimaginative though good.

Outside, P.O.E. looks like a riverfront warehouse. It's an easy illusion, what with the Fox River lapping against its walls.

In the dining area bales of cotton, sacks of grain and hanging brass scales filled with exotic spices make patrons feel as though they've just stepped off the boat.

And, that's exactly what the owner had in mind.

FRANK NADELL has also succeeded in presenting a "package dinner" at a reasonable price without sacrificing quality.

Most shoppers know, if you pick up your "package" at the port of entry, you save on freight costs.

Nadell's P.O.E. Restaurant has no a la carte offerings on its menu.

The dinner price includes everything: two cocktails before dinner, appetizer, salad, main entree with potatoes and even an after-dinner drink. Adult dinners without cocktails are $1.75 less.

P.O.E. serves hearty portions of steaks, pork and beef barbecue ribs, fried shrimp and lobster tails. Dover sole and flaming shish-kebab round out the mostly American menu.

I enjoyed the filet and lobster combination and my companion ordered ribs, lightly seasoned and cooked just right.

MY BAKED POTATO was served hot and the waiter refilled our bread basket and butter dish without being asked. Though you won't find anything out of the ordinary on this menu, the food is good and service is excellent.

P.O.E. has no house special. However, it does specialize in catering to the average or hearty appetite. Meals are proportioned and priced accordingly. A lot of people have been looking for that.

The "Hearty" dinners include a lazy susan loaded with such appetizers as liver pate, cheese and a variety of munchies. The price includes salad, potato and a main entree plus cocktails and wine with dinner for $9.50 Sunday through Tuesday. It's $9.95 Wednesday through Friday and $10.95 on Saturdays and holidays.

AVERAGE PORTIONS will cost a diner $6.95 Sunday through Tuesday, $7.45 Wednesday through Friday, and $7.95 Saturdays and holidays.

The average portions are more than adequate. Hearty on the P.O.E. menu means just that. Be prepared for a feast if you decide to order the larger portions.

In addition to the unusual atmosphere, waiters and waitresses encourage guests to relax after dinner and enjoy the view.

We dawdled over coffee and after-dinner drinks without being rushed.

P.O.E. serves diners as they sit in huge crates dressed up as booths, but it's a fun place to eat.

Two housewalks promise pleasant day in country

Autumn is an ideal time to take a long stroll, and if you're interested in home decorations and art work a housewalk fills the bill.

Two communities, Geneva and Riverwoods, have scheduled housewalks next week, each with a different theme in mind.

Geneva's tour of five homes includes a luncheon and country fair sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of Community Hospital. Wach Walk X, the 10th annual house tour, will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday.

The country fair and luncheon will be held at Kane County Fairgrounds. The box luncheon, with tickets in advance only, will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. An $8 ticket includes the tour, fair and lunch, reserved by calling 879-1136 or 879-7746. A $6 ticket is for the tour and fair only.

A COMBINATION of arts and crafts in many media will be on display in five homes for the annual Arts and Riverwoods art show and home tour next weekend, Oct. 9-10.

Twenty-eight artists and craftsmen have been invited to display their work in the homes, which will be open from noon to 6 p.m. both days.

A ticket and information booth located at Sanders and Deerfield Roads will direct visitors to the Riverwoods area. Tickets are $2 for adults and children prior to the show and $4 during the event. Advance requests should be addressed to Box RRA, Deerfield, Ill. 60015.

'Wheel' show to star twist king

Recording star Chubby Checkers, acknowledged "King of the Twist," will lead a continuous program of musical entertainment at the second annual edition of "Chicago on Wheels" to be held at Arlington Park Exposition Center Oct. 7-10.

Chubby will sing his rendition of "The Twist," "Let's Twist Again," "Popeye" and "Good Lovin'" plus many more classics of the '60s.

The custom van and bike show, "Chicago on Wheels," will feature 300 vehicles in all, led by the newest craze, radically customed 18-wheel Diesel power rigs. There will be vehicles suited to the custom freak's taste, from California street vans through a broad spectrum of custom and competition motorcycles, including three-wheel trikes and low-rider customs.

Hours are 5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Thursday and Friday, noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Admission is $4 for adults, $1 children 8 to 12, free to those under 8. The exposition center is located at Euclid Avenue and Route 53, Arlington Heights.

Melodeers going to convention

Melodeers Chapter of Sweet Adelines, whose members are from the northern and northwest suburbs of Chicago, will represent Lake Michigan Region at the international convention of Sweet Adelines, to be held Oct. 12-17 in Cincinnati.

To qualify the chorus won the regional championship over 25 other groups last year in St. Louis.

The Melodeers rehearse Tuesday evenings in St. Giles Church, Northbrook.

Program series begins Wednesday

Elk Grove Arts Guild's first program series of the year begins Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Elk Grove Village Library. Entitled "Chicago, Chicago," the four-part series will feature Chicago personalities speaking on facets of life in "the second city." The first speaker is Don Klimovich, writer for Chicago magazine, who will discuss Chicago nightlife.

The free program will last an hour and is open to the public. Subsequent programs will be held Oct. 20, Nov. 3 and Nov. 17.

This represents the arts guild's first presentation in Elk Grove Village. In the past the guild has sponsored cultural excursions to Chicago and these outings will be continued.

Further information is available from Richard Calisch at 439-4800, ext. 71.

'Take A Number, Darling'

Sharkey comedy not up to par

Elk Grove playwright JACK SHARKEY stays withthe same basic style. His comedies are all zany, unpredictable with silliness intensified by a rash of mixups and mistaken identities. Sharkey's brain must be constantly churning to come up with enough crazy schemes and characters.

Unfortunately, "TAKE A NUMBER, DARLING," his 14th play now premiering at COUNTRY CLUB COMEDY THEATER in Mount Prospect, does not measure up to his previous work.

The storyline is weak and confusing. The audience is kept in the dark most of the first act — not sure what to expect. That's O.K. if there is enough action to divert attention. But there isn't.

The madcap antics don't begin until the final round, and then too much redundancy and an oversealous cast together stomp the finer points of a good farce into the ground.

Yet, despite being long and drawn out, the comedy is original and lighthearted. I could live with the tedious beginning if Sharkey's one-liners were more up-to-date. They fall flat in this liberated age. Sexist? I'd never accuse him. I know better. Even so, the play reeks of subtle feminine putdowns, the kind that make women insist on opening doors for themselves.

TOM VENTRISS is good as Duncan Latimer, a concert pianist who practices at home while his wife, Eileen (DORIS SILVER), plays her role every day on a popular soap opera.

Ventriss makes Latimer come alive — as a personality. But who told him he could play piano?

PAT MOYER is cast as Bill Rutledge, an old army buddy of Duncan's and former sweetheart of Eileen's. Only Duncan doesn't know the latter, and Bill doesn't know Eileen is now Duncan's wife. The last time he saw her she has a different name and different career — collecting garbage. See what I mean?

But wait one second. Duncan's "almost" wife — he was only married five minutes — comes back to claim him. She happens to be a Spanish dancer who doesn't speak a word of English, or pretends not to anyhow.

JANET DAVIDSON plays Ilona, and she runs around looking confused most of the time, exactly like the audience looks most of the time.

Assigned to straighten out the entire mess is NANCY KOLE, the Latimers' public relations agent (I prefer that to 'girl'), who inadvertently lets a nosy reporter (RICK SNYDER) come in and dig around the homestead for some dirt. And boy, does he find it.

Snyder's character is best written and best played. He meshes the third act and turns out to be a refreshing highlight of the evening.

This would-be farce directed by Ed Sauer would do well with some serious tightening, further character development and real money. What's the purpose of passing play money? Times aren't that bad.

Country Club Theatre's MONDAY-NIGHT SHOWCASE has reopened with "SWINGER HECKELL AND MR. HIDE," a comedy-drama by local playwright JOSEPH KROUCHICK of Mount Prospect.

Staged Monday nights when most theaters are closed, Monday-Night Showcase was designed to give new local talent an opportunity to see what they can do. This is the first production of a play by Krouchick who has finished two other scripts he hopes to see staged one day.

This is BARBI BENTON'S third visit to the BLUE MAX of the REGENCY HYATT HOUSE. And each time she has introduced almost a brand new show and an increasingly sophisticated image. Barbi's into more of a light rock sound as opposed to pure country, though this time around she remembers her beginning with a Hank Williams medley.

But most of her show covers new songs from her most recent album, "Something New," recorded, naturally, on the Playboy label.

She sings the title song, "Needing You," a catchy "Staying Power" and her old stand-by that describes herself, "Brass Buckles." She also includes the number she sang on the ABC Mystery Movie, "Ain't That Just the Way?", a favorite of mine because of the powerful, lilting lyrics.

Just as her singing style is developing so is her stage presence. It's a much more subdued, covered up Barbi who comes out on stage for this engagement signaling that Barbi is not only growing up but also out of Playboy.

This is BARBI BENTON'S third visit to the BLUE MAX of the REGENCY HYATT HOUSE. And each time she has introduced almost a brand new show and an increasingly sophisticated image. Barbi's into more of a light rock sound as opposed to pure country, though this time around she remembers her beginning with a Hank Williams medley.

But most of her show covers new songs from her most recent album, "Something New," recorded, naturally, on the Playboy label.

She sings the title song, "Needing You," a catchy "Staying Power" and her old stand-by that describes herself, "Brass Buckles." She also includes the number she sang on the ABC Mystery Movie, "Ain't That Just the Way?", a favorite of mine because of the powerful, lilting lyrics.

Just as her singing style is developing so is her stage presence. It's a much more subdued, covered up Barbi who comes out on stage for this engagement signaling that Barbi is not only growing up but also out of Playboy.

Northwest Symphony offers 'special' with membership

In celebrating its 25th anniversary, Northwest Symphony Orchestra has a special offer available along with its invitation to the public to become sustaining members of the association.

In addition to the two tickets and a program mailed to all members prior to each concert, the symphony board will send one extra free ticket per concert in honor of the silver anniversary.

There are four categories for sustaining membership: donor, $15; associate, $25; patron, $50; and benefactor, $100. Contributions may be sent to Northwest Symphony Orchestra Association, 1603 Thacker St., Des Plaines, Ill. 60016. All are tax deductible.

THIS SEASON there will be four Sunday evening concerts, the first Dec. 5 in Maine North auditorium and featuring pianist Barbara Gorgol.

Conductor Perry Crafton has scheduled Blair Milton, violinist, James Wisniewski, clarinetist, and vocal soloists to be announced later for the remaining three concerts. They will all be held at Maine East High.

Season tickets for the four concerts are $7.50. Single tickets are $3 for adults; $1.50 students and senior citizens; children under 12 free if accompanied by an adult. Dawn McCloy, 824-6948, is taking reservations.

This time, have your family portrait FREE!

Say, when's the last time you had your family together for a color portrait? Or even just one of you and your loved one? If you're like most folks, it's probably been too long.

We'd like to take this opportunity to say "thanks for doing business with us" by giving you an up-to-date, full color 8" x 10" portrait, taken by professional photographers —absolutely free!

There's nothing hidden in this offer . . . not even the camera. All you need do is be a customer, or open any new savings or checking account before the sitting dates. There are no fees or print costs—it's another service that shows we believe "Just being there isn't enough."

Simply stop in or call the Suburban bank where you are a customer, give your account number and make an appointment. That's all there is to it!

Proofs will be shown to you and any one pose may be selected (but we warn you—it may be difficult picking just one. These FAMILY PORTRAIT photographers are really good).

If you wish to order additional portraits, they will be available in all sizes. But that's up to you . . . there is no obligation.

So act now. Then you'll have your new 8 x 10 portrait in plenty of time for Christmas. It's a gift the whole family will treasure.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Several conditions cause fatty liver

I recently had my gall baldder removed and at the time of the operation they also took a liver biopsy. They told me that I had a fatty liver and that I should avoid all alcohol. I don't drink anyway. The doctor didn't put me on any special diet or anything and only said to avoid stress.

I couldn't work for four months and at the end of that period I went back in the hospital for another liver biopsy. It showed no change in the condition, but my doctor allowed me to go back to work. I just had to avoid smelling certain solvents and chemicals (which I don't work with anyway).

My question is, what causes a fatty liver and what can be done about it? I'm sure there's something I can do to reverse it. Since I don't know what I did wrong to get it, I don't know if I'm continuing to make it worse unwittingly.

Deposition of fat in the liver can occur in any number of conditions that damage the liver. Use of alcohol is only one example. Starvation can do it because the mobilization of fat stores for energy overloads the liver with fat. It also happens in untreated severe diabetes and after inflammation of the liver. The fatty liver is sometimes replaced then by abnormal architecture of the regenerated live and scarring, resulting in the condition we call cirrhosis of the liver.

My guess is that the fatty liver is secondary to the disease you had of the gall bladder. There isn't much you can do about it. It may not progress to anything more serious for you. I would suggest though that you take an all-purpose vitamin tablet every day and that you make sure your diet contains at least seven ounces of lean red meat each day. Why? Because the meat contains choline, a substance that helps prevent deposition of fat in the liver. It will not harm you and may be very helpful.

To give you more information on the liver, how it works and what fatty liver and cirrhosis means I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-8, Living With Your Liver. Others who want more information on this subject can send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

I am annoyed with people blaming my sensitivity to cold weather — San Francisco wind or drafts — on poor blood. I give to the blood bank every three months and am in good health, never get cold hands and feet. What is the medical reason for this? I'm 52 years old, 5 feet 1 and weigh 113 pounds. I have thin arms and legs. I am easily chilled, especially around the neck, arms and back.

The sensation of chilliness is dependent upon nerve fibers in the skin and this does not necessarily mean a person's body is cold. It may mean that the body is trying to conserve heat and has shut down the flow of blood to the skin but that has nothing to do with poor circulation.

My guess is that you chill easily because you have no internal thermal underwear. What do I mean? I mean no fat pad. Fat tissue insulates the body and holds body heat in. That is why fat people don't tolerate hot weather well. Be thankful you are thin as you will stay healthier longer. Just put your insulation on the outside as clothing. You can take that off or put it on when you need to, which your friends with weight problems cannot do — so rejoice and count your blessings.

Naptha soap for trees a remedy that worked

Dear Dorothy: Your column said something about using naphtha soap on trees. How strong does one make the solution? Is it sprayed on? — John Schonoff

This deterrent treatment appears in none of the tree books and all I've been doing is recounting personal experience. It began with the advice of nurserymen for the care of dogwoods. A piece of the soap put in the crotch of each dogwood seemed to keep borers away. One doubting Thomas wrote the University agricultural school and was told it seemed to work. Then the practice spread to other trees and many of my neighbors made solutions of water with the naphtha soap, but without specific measurements. They sprayed tree trunks from the ground upwards to about three feet or so. The trees stayed healthy and we attributed much of this to the naphtha soap. The one drawback is that rain washes off the stuff quickly and so repeat action is often necessary.

Both ways season properly. Air drying takes longer.

Supermarket stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — A supermarket trade magazine says floral departments are the supermarkets' new superstars, ". . . outpacing virtually every other product group in sight."

Plants lead the way, but flowers are growing fast, said an article in Progressive Grocer. The report cited the case of a market in Oklahoma City that doubled its floral department volume, going from $5,000 to $10,000 in one week when it ran a sale. The increase reflected a greater profit than the entire meat department of a typical supermarket and half as much profit as an entire grocery section, the magazine said.

The article's annual report on the industry said some independent companies have shown a 600 per cent hike in horticultural volume in the past three years. Between 1972 and 1975, independents merchandising fresh flowers or plants grew from 20 per cent to 46 per cent. Nearly half of all supermarkets currently have some permanent horticultural display, Progressive Grocer estimated.

Most observers see an unlimited run in this growth.

Starvation can do it because the mobilization of fat stores for energy overloads the liver with fat. It also happens in untreated severe diabetes and after inflammation of the liver. The fatty liver is sometimes replaced then by abnormal architecture of the regenerated live and scarring, resulting in the condition we call cirrhosis of the liver.

My guess is that the fatty liver is secondary to the disease you had of the gall bladder. There isn't much you can do about it. It may not progress to anything more serious for you. I would suggest though that you take an all-purpose vitamin tablet every day and that you make sure your diet contains at least seven ounces of lean red meat each day. Why? Because the meat contains choline, a substance that helps prevent deposition of fat in the liver. It will not harm you and may be very helpful.

To give you more information on the liver, how it works and what fatty liver and cirrhosis means I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-8, Living With Your Liver. Others who want more information on this subject can send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

I am annoyed with people blaming my sensitivity to cold weather — San Francisco wind or drafts — on poor blood. I give to the blood bank every three months and am in good health, never get cold hands and feet. What is the medical reason for this? I'm 52 years old, 5 feet 1 and weigh 113 pounds. I have thin arms and legs. I am easily chilled, especially around the neck, arms and back.

The sensation of chilliness is dependent upon nerve fibers in the skin and this does not necessarily mean a person's body is cold. It may mean that the body is trying to conserve heat and has shut down the flow of blood to the skin but that has nothing to do with poor circulation.

My guess is that you chill easily because you have no internal thermal underwear. What do I mean? I mean no fat pad. Fat tissue insulates the body and holds body heat in. That is why fat people don't tolerate hot weather well. Be thankful you are thin as you will stay healthier longer. Just put your insulation on the outside as clothing. You can take that off or put it on when you need to, which your friends with weight problems cannot do — so rejoice and count your blessings.

Naptha soap for trees a remedy that worked

Dear Dorothy: Your column said something about using naphtha soap on trees. How strong does one make the solution? Is it sprayed on? — John Schonoff

This deterrent treatment appears in none of the tree books and all I've been doing is recounting personal experience. It began with the advice of nurserymen for the care of dogwoods. A piece of the soap put in the crotch of each dogwood seemed to keep borers away. One doubting Thomas wrote the University agricultural school and was told it seemed to work. Then the practice spread to other trees and many of my neighbors made solutions of water with the naphtha soap, but without specific measurements. They sprayed tree trunks from the ground upwards to about three feet or so. The trees stayed healthy and we attributed much of this to the naphtha soap. The one drawback is that rain washes off the stuff quickly and so repeat action is often necessary.

Dear Dorothy: Want a simple way to do frozen cauliflower? Saute it with margarine in a covered pan until almost tender. Then put it in a baking dish, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and put in a 350-degree oven until brown. — Maryann Morrill

Dear Dorothy: Does everyone know that hot glass dishes should not be cooled suddenly? Accidentally put a hot dish in a puddle of cold water on the kitchen counter. It went "bam" — and I was lucky not to be hit by the fragments. — Joyce Rollins

Dear Dorothy: Which is better to season lumber — air drying or kiln drying? And which takes longer? — Harry Kohl
Both ways season properly. Air drying takes longer.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A supermarket trade magazine says floral departments are the supermarkets' new superstars, ". . . outpacing virtually every other product group in sight."

Plants lead the way, but flowers are growing fast, said an article in Progressive Grocer. The report cited the case of a market in Oklahoma City that doubled its floral department volume, going from $5,000 to $10,000 in one week when it ran a sale. The increase reflected a greater profit than the entire meat department of a typical supermarket and half as much profit as an entire grocery section, the magazine said.

The article's annual report on the industry said some independent companies have shown a 600 per cent hike in horticultural volume in the past three years. Between 1972 and 1975, independents merchandising fresh flowers or plants grew from 20 per cent to 46 per cent. Nearly half of all supermarkets currently have some permanent horticultural display, Progressive Grocer estimated.

Most observers see an unlimited run in this growth.

Ask Andy

Circus dates to ancient spectacles

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Nandini Sathi, 9, of Toronto, Ont., Canada, for the question:

WHO STARTED THE CIRCUS?

People not only love to laugh, they also love to be thrilled by daring feats they themselves would be scared to try. These two elements account for the universal appeal of the circus. And although the modern circus is only a couple hundred years old, many aspects are direct descendants of entertainment forms thousands of years old.

The ancient Romans put on splendid displays of chariot racing to wildly cheering throngs. In fact, the word "circus," meaning circle or ring, comes from the Roman Circus Maximus, a gigantic oblong arena which seated 180,000 persons.

Rome had several "circuses," buildings or spaces where races and athletic contests were held. Occasionally, wild animals were brought into the arena to be pitted against each other or some human challenger.

The circus of today bears little resemblance to early Roman spectacles. Usually our modern productions occur inside an enormous tent or stadium where parades, trapeze artists, clowns, horsemen, acrobats and trained animals dazzle our eyes.

Two Englishmen, Philip Ashley and Charles Hughes, contributed greatly to the popularity of the circus during the 18th Century. Ashley, who combined horsemanship and acrobatics with clowning, is considered the "father of the circus." He built amphitheaters in many English cities, while Hughes introduced the popular new form of entertainment to Russia.

In the United States, the circus quickly gained large audiences. John Richetts put on the first completely varied circus in Philadelphia in 1793. One of the spectators was George Washington. Whether a simple one-ring show or an elaborate production with full band, the circus has survived down through the years as a unique entertainment experience.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Scott Lockwood, 15, of Sandy Utah, for his question:

CAN YOU PLEASE TELL ME ABOUT THE ANT LION?

Scott has a little insect in his yard which gobbles up ants. It lies waiting for these juicy morsels in a funnel dug in the loose, sandy ground. Inside this pit, only its powerful jaws are exposed and when the prey tumbles in — snap! — it's gone. This stealthy insect is an ant lion, sometimes called a doodlebug, and its trapping tactics are only a part of its life story. For as soon as this larval stage ends and it is fully grown, it spins a rough cocoon. Later it emerges as a lovely creature with four long delicate wings, somewhat resembling a dragonfly.

Meanwhile, back in the pit, as soon as an ant or some other small insect wanders over the edge, the ant lion goes into action. It tosses sand up from the base to confuse its victim and to keep the avalanche rolling.

Then it seizes its prey and drags it further down the hole. After eating selected parts, the ant lion casts the remains out of the pit. Then it repairs its trap and settles down to wait for the next innocent passer-by. The ant lion larva's method of obtaining food is not very lionlike, but it certainly is efficient.

Princess Grace hails uncle's play

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — "It's true that there seem to be fewer women's roles today. Perhaps women have lost their mystique a little bit."

That's the view of Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia, New York and Hollywood.

Her Serene Highness, sounding every bit as serene as her title, agreed to a telephone interview from Paris in order to discuss the PBS broadcast "The Fatal Weakness," a Hollywood Television Theater version of the 1946 Broadway Play by her uncle, George Kelly. PBS broadcasts the show Sept. 30 (consult local PBS station of exact day and time).

THE PLAY STARS Eva Marie Saint in a sophisticated comedy about a middle class woman whose muddle-headed sentimentality wrecks her marriage — a role originated on Broadway by Ina Claire. Kelly's best known play was "Craig's Wife," with a dilly of a woman's lead.

"I saw the television show when I was in New York in July," Princess Grace said, "and I was delighted with it. I thought it was very well done, I thought the performances were good, I thought Eva Marie Saint was perfectly delightful and charming in the leading part. I had seen Ina Claire do it in New York years ago. Eva Marie Saint's performance compares very favorably."

She added that she thought the play held up over the years — that while styles have changed, "I don't think human problems change. Relationships between people are basically the same. For that it's very timely."

Opening lead — 7 ♠

This is the sort of hand that looks easy to the expert. He has four apparent losers, but he causes one to disappear into thin air by the use of what is known as an elimination play.

He assumes that West has opened a singleton spade. He wins the lead in his own hand and plays a club. West rises with the ace and leads a second club. No other lead is any better.

South wins, draws trumps and leads a diamond toward dummy. Dummy's king wins the first or second diamond and another diamond is played. This will give West two diamonds and one club and a headache. He will have to lead a card in one of those suits. South will ruff in dummy and discard his losing spade!

This is what would happen with an expert declarer, but there is a way to defeat the contract. Instead of taking his ace when the first club is led, West plays the queen. South must draw trumps before leading a second club which East must take with his nine. Now East plays the queen of spades. South takes the ace in dummy, comes to his hand with a trump and leads a diamond. West plays the queen of this suit. Dummy takes the king, but when the second diamond is played, East wins. He cashes his jack of spades, leads another spade and the defense waits for West to get his diamond trick.

Princess Grace hails uncle's play

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — "It's true that there seem to be fewer women's roles today. Perhaps women have lost their mystique a little bit."

That's the view of Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia, New York and Hollywood.

Her Serene Highness, sounding every bit as serene as her title, agreed to a telephone interview from Paris in order to discuss the PBS broadcast "The Fatal Weakness," a Hollywood Television Theater version of the 1946 Broadway Play by her uncle, George Kelly. PBS broadcasts the show Sept. 30 (consult local PBS station of exact day and time).

THE PLAY STARS Eva Marie Saint in a sophisticated comedy about a middle class woman whose muddle-headed sentimentality wrecks her marriage — a role originated on Broadway by Ina Claire. Kelly's best known play was "Craig's Wife," with a dilly of a woman's lead.

"I saw the television show when I was in New York in July," Princess Grace said, "and I was delighted with it. I thought it was very well done, I thought the performances were good, I thought Eva Marie Saint was perfectly delightful and charming in the leading part. I had seen Ina Claire do it in New York years ago. Eva Marie Saint's performance compares very favorably."

She added that she thought the play held up over the years — that while styles have changed, "I don't think human problems change. Relationships between people are basically the same. For that it's very timely."

Loser disappears by magic

This is the sort of hand that looks easy to the expert. He has four apparent losers, but he causes one to disappear into thin air by the use of what is known as an elimination play.

He assumes that West has opened a singleton spade. He wins the lead in his own hand and plays a club. West rises with the ace and leads a second club. No other lead is any better.

South wins, draws trumps and leads a diamond toward dummy. Dummy's king wins the first or second diamond and another diamond is played. This will give West two diamonds and one club and a headache. He will have to lead a card in one of those suits. South will ruff in dummy and discard his losing spade!

This is what would happen with an expert declarer, but there is a way to defeat the contract. Instead of taking his ace when the first club is led, West plays the queen. South must draw trumps before leading a second club which East must take with his nine. Now East plays the queen of spades. South takes the ace in dummy, comes to his hand with a trump and leads a diamond. West plays the queen of this suit. Dummy takes the king, but when the second diamond is played, East wins. He cashes his jack of spades, leads another spade and the defense waits for West to get his diamond trick.

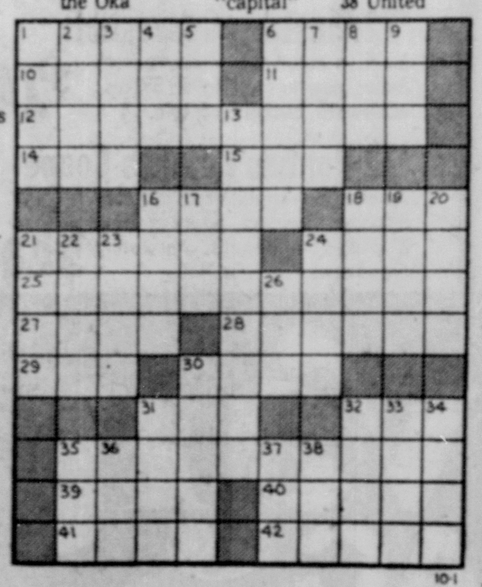
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Grid card features North games tonight

No unbeaten teams remain after 3 weeks; patterns expected to emerge in key games

by KEITH REINHARD

Now that just about everyone is totally confused, Mid-Suburban League football moves into full swing this weekend with the opening of North Division play.

Six area games are on tap Friday night — five of them MSL tilts — and three more high school contests are slated for tomorrow involving local squads. After Saturday it's possible that patterns will begin to emerge, but so far, one can only make calculated guesses about where the power lies.

Combat Friday will see Arlington at Hersey, Buffalo Grove at Palatine and Wheeling at Fremd in north division lid-lifters. Elk Grove, meanwhile, will visit Forest View and Prospect will entertain Conant as the MSL South continues to heat up from last week.

Maine West will be at Glenbrook North in a Central Suburban South showdown to round out this evening's log.

Thus far, about the only certainty is that there will be no undefeated group blossoming from the local ranks at the conclusion of the 1976 campaign. Elk Grove, Hoffman Estates and Regis of Iowa put the damper on the area's remaining three unbeaten teams (Rolling Meadows, Forest View, Buffalo Grove) last weekend.

Here's the bill of fare for Friday:

ELK GROVE AT FOREST VIEW

The tenth chapter of this neighborhood brawl promises to be a good one, pitting two teams with 2-1 marks against each other. One more win for the Grenadiers at this juncture could put them in the driver's seat in the MSL South.

Grove head coach Don Schnake is not about to write off the Falcons however, despite their setback at Hoffman Estates last Saturday. "I think they had an emotional problem that they sure won't have this week. That loss will make them even better."

View helmsman Fred Lussow is hoping Schnake is correct in his assessment. "We need a complete turnaround. With all the fumbles, interceptions and busted patterns last week it was like a nightmare."

Added the Falcon mentor: We'll be in for another long day if we don't get through the seams and attack this Elk Grove club quickly. They're so physical and they're so strong and deep in the backfield that we just can't afford to play catch-up football against them."

"I'm impressed with Forest View's defense," countered Schnake. "They've had a little trouble with consistency on offense but I don't see many weaknesses in their other unit. They haven't given up many touchdowns this season."

The series stands at 4-4-1.

ARLINGTON AT HERSEY

Redbird coach Chuck Haines has seen his squad rally for a pair of wins after losing their opener but he is putting all this non-conference action behind him. "It's the beginning of a new season now although we're not actually catching Hersey at an ideal time. They have to be smarting from their loss to Prospect last week and more than anxious to want to rebound."

Haines is expecting the Huskies to severely test Arlington's biggest strength . . . their defensive secondary. Hersey quarterback Dan Vucovich has averaged 24 passes and 128 yards in aerial yardage a game and it will be clashing with defenders Gary Kempton, Tom North and Rick Godwin and their total three-game pass yield of only 65 yards.

Hersey pilot Joe Gliwa, however, appears more anxious to unleash a ground game that is at full strength now with the return of Wally Hommerding to the lineup. "Getting Wally back is a real lift. Tony Becker did a super job of ball-carrying for us last week and the two of them together should make our running game go now.

"This is the kind of rivalry that the kids on both sides don't have to be prodded into getting up for. I just hope we can get ours up a little higher," added Gliwa.

CONANT AT PROSPECT

The Knights have strongly dominated the rivalry in recent years, winning six of the last seven meetings, but that should have little bearing on tonight's outcome. Both clubs figure to be sky high, having last weekend knocked off both of the defending MSL champions.

"We're excited," offered Conant coach John Ayres, whose team blanked South division kingpin Schaumburg. "We're still a long way from perfection but the win last week has really provided us with some greatspirit."

The Cougars will be playing this week without the services of halfback Tony Stompanato and linebacker Jack Kerr, and Ayres acknowledges the fact that Prospect is as good a team as Conant will face all season. But he promises to have his team ready for another strong showing.

Conant was led by Jeff Johnson in the win over Schaumburg. Johnson, a two-way senior, punished the Saxons with 71 yards rushing and contributed several key tackles from his linebacker spot.

Grouwinkel called the victor over Hersey an important one — in terms other than won-loss records. "The win was great for the program. It's given us confidence. We've learned that if we play well as a unit, we're going to win."

Prospect's Tom Sampson, a 6-2, 195-pound junior tackle, earned defensive honors in the game against Hersey. It was his blocked punt that turned out to be the game's crucial moment.

Another key performer for the Knights was punter Mike Frushour, who averaged 37 yards on five kicks, including a 52-yarder. Frushour's high punts allowed Prospect to limit Hersey to just one return yard.

WHEELING AT FREMD

Observed Wheeling coach Gerry Clinnin: "Fremd is a strong, hard-nosed team that comes right at you. They have a real fine athlete in (Gary) Gunderson, a very quick back who blocks, runs and catches passes. He's a mover. Things are probably going to be just as tough for us this week as they were against Libertyville last Saturday."

Fremd's Joe Samojedny meanwhile, is still looking for improvement for a Vike outfit that trimmed New Trier West 21-0 a week ago. "Non-conference games can provide us with some experience but this one with Wheeling counts for a lot more so it's important that we're ready."

BUFFALO GROVE AT PALATINE

"Our defense played well," pointed out Palatine head man Arv Herstedt of his club's losing effort at Peoria Central last week.

"Their defense is of primary concern to us," echoed Buffalo Grove coach Grant Blaney. "It's been pretty stingy all season."

Thus the stage is set for this young rivalry. Blaney's charges squeezed out a two-point verdict over the Pirates in their first meeting in 1974 and escaped by a single point last season.

"I think we're in for another toughie this time," added the Grove mentor. "It's at their place for one thing,

31 prep golf teams to play in annual Cougar Classic

by KEITH REINHARD
Golf Editor

A record 31 high school teams, including 10 area entries, will begin teeing off at 8 a.m. Saturday in the sixth-annual Cougar Classic golf tournament at Hilldale Golf Club, Hoffman Estates.

Six teams, including four area squads, have a chance to take the title, won last year by Downers Grove South.

Fremd is one of the front-runners, having only two weeks ago taken top honors in the Fenton Invitational. Palatine is another possibility along with Dundee, Cary Grove, Addison Trail and Naperville North.

Even Forest View and hosting Conant cannot be ruled out as possible champs.

The make up of the tourney will be somewhat different than last year. In addition to the fact that four teams from 1975 have dropped out of competition — to be replaced by five new entries — the meet itself has been shifted to another site.

"The tournament should be somewhat tougher this year," said meet director Barry Carlson, Conant golf coach. "We were at Golden Acres in 1975 and Hilldale is a more difficult course . . . much tighter . . . and we'll be playing off the back tees to compound the difficulty."

Carlson feels the site change may be helpful to his own club, which has never finished worse than 14th in their own tournament. On the two previous occasions when it was played over the par 35-36 Hilldale layout, his team placed fourth and tied for first respectively.

New additions to the tourney include Naperville Central and Naperville North, Oak Park, Glenbard South and Maine North. Buffalo Grove, St. Viator, Maine East and Elgin have dropped out of tourney play.

Among the individuals rated to make a run for medalist honors are Palatine's Mike Sievers and Nick Zambole along with Cary Grove's Tom Hartley, low shooter at Fenton two weeks ago. Dave Erickson of Proviso West and Mike Jacobs of Niles West, both among the top 10 finishers in the 1975 Cougar Classic, are also favorites.

Aurora West has a pair of top-flight individuals. Joe Husar of Hoffman Estates and Randy Severinsen of Conant are other possibiities.

Other area teams entered are Arlington, Elk Grove, Maine West, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg.

Other schools coming to play at Hilldale Saturday include East Leyden, Elmwood Park, North Chicago, Notre Dame, Proviso East, St. Edward and West Leyden.

Soccer report

Wildcats defeat Bison; Knights, Vikings also win

Fremd, Wheeling and Prospect posted high school soccer wins Thursday.

Playing at Barrington, the Fremd Vikings improved their record to 5-0-1 with a 2-1 victory over the Broncos.

In the sophomore contest, Fremd and Barrington played to a 1-1 tie, dropping their records to 5-0-1.

"Frankly, I think we didn't play up to par," said Wheeling Head coach Pete Fischbach of his team's 3-2 win over hosting Buffalo Grove.

"Apparently, we seem to take light opponents lightly and rise up against the better ones. However, Buffalo Grove has improved from the first time we played them (which Wheeling also won, 2-0)."

Wheeling goalie Chris Small made 12 saves. Meanwhile, the Wildcats blasted 22 shots at Bison goalie Tim Hill.

The Bison whipped Wheeling on the sophomore level, 2-1.

Prospect hiked its record to 2-4-1 with a 2-1 victory over hosting Lake Park. Santiago Bustamante put the Knights on the board in the second quarter, assisted by Eric Johansson.

Tony Anst gave the Knights the win with a third period score, assisted by Roger Consdorf.

Prospect head coach Wally Bachir said goalie Norb Radatz "played an outstanding game" in holding the Lancers to just one goal.

The Knight sophomores also won, 4-0.

The Hersey Huskies gave up two cheap goals in the first half before making a valiant attempt to come back in the second half, losing 4-3 at Waukegan East.

Larry Anglada put the Huskies on the board in the first quarter, assisted by Pat Alarcon and joe Velisek.

Dan Velisek knocked one home in the third period, assisted by Anglada. Bob Klaus slammed in another in the fourth.

"We played a good, strong second-half," said Huskie coach Walk Jasinski. "We just couldn't quite get it tied."

Hersey goalie Jim Cowden had 15 saves. Seven Huskie shots were saved by Waukegan's goalie.

"That's the most goals since our opening game," said Jasinski, who saw his team's overall record drop to 1-6-2.

The Huskie sophomore team lost, 3-0.

Rebellion

Professional football prisoners begin to escape

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

There are no billboards out there to tell the world, but the National Football League has lost some of its luster.

The people who run the show will never admit it, but the erosion in public interest is starting to show in many ways.

When pro football was really king, people would knock down walls and drive through swamps to see their teams play.

Forget the rain. Forget the ice, snow, sleet and sub-zero temperatures.

Times have changed. Today, many fans seem to be saying, "Forget the game."

Maybe it was raining Sunday, but the Chicago Bears came to Soldier Field with a 2-0 record. The game was blacked out on local television, but 16,000 fans still didn't show up.

You might expect that in December when a team was struggling for survival and just playing out the string. I didn't expect that in September when everyone was talking about the "new Bears."

It's not just a Chicago problem. You can see it developing in other areas despite the propaganda pumped out by the National Football League. The erosion may be slow, but it's there.

The NFL would never admit its game has lost anything. They seem to feel it is bigger than life itself, the perfect product with running, throwing, jumping, catching, smiting, fighting.

There are times I find everything connected with the NFL a little hard to comprehend. They seem to have brainwashed so many people.

It's gotten so bad reporters are reporting non-events.

The wire service ran a story Tuesday that coach Hank Stram of the New Orleans Saints will have his team wear white jerseys and black pants against the Houston Oilers. Stram throught the home fans would like to see the alternate uniforms.

Stop the presses. Come on, people, get serious.

You would not believe the number of stories filed daily on the NFL. You would not believe the NFL releases that cross this desk every week.

The NFL's busy work is selling, the oversell and the hard-sell. They're selling the days of the day when there are no games. At least, they feel obligated to sell those days.

Pro football has become a very big thing in the last 20 years, and there is no abiding mystery about that. The boom parallels booms in communications, affluence, urbanization, leisure time — and other sports.

However, I'm convinced that at the grass-roots level, pro football has projected itself as a bit too swank for its own good. Even the phony fields give the game an artificial look it doesn't need.

I always thought the character of football set it apart. Teams used to play on muddy fields, sheets of ice. They had to adjust to the variables of the weather as much as adjusting to the opponent.

The rugs look nice but don't help pro football present itself as a game for rugged individuals. The sport, like the nation, has gone soft.

That could help explain 16,000 no-shows on an afternoon a Bears' game was blacked out. The rain is just a convenient excuse.

The game represents itself as too much theater. There's a subtle suggestion to the fan that since the player isn't being asked to play in difficult elements why should the fan have to do so as a spectator?

When it was decided to play the Super Bowl in warm weather, this robbed those cities that dreamed of hosting a championship. The fans brave the cold, biting winds of November and December, plus rain and snow, when they buy regular-season tickets. But they're deprived of a chance to freeze at the championship game.

Pro football simply has oversold itself. Every time you turn on the TV, you see a live game, a rerun or highlights. The exposure has to hurt because the games have become stereotyped.

For every Roger Staubach thriller, there are countless boring, ho-hum affairs directed by very conservative coaches afraid of losing their jobs.

No longer are the fans and writers crying out that baseball is a big bore because, if that's true, pro football has become a replica of tedium.

Competition is a relative thing because seeing two evenly matched sandlot, high school or college teams can often be a much better football show than the pros put on each weekend.

Just because they wear the pro label and get the big dollars doesn't mean they are going to put on a classic confrontation.

This entire pro football spectacle is fascinating. People have been prisoners of the game for so long a rebellion is developing.

From Herald Wire Services

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Mount Prospect's Larry Monroe failed in his bid to win his second start for the White Sox here Thursday night.

The Angels defeated the White Sox, 7-3.

Monroe, a 20-year-old rookie, was touched for one run in the second and three in the fifth, being lifted in the sixth inning for relief pitcher Ken Kravec.

Tony Solaita doubled to lead off the second and scored on a single by Ron Jackson.

After sending the Angels down in order in three out of the first four innings, Jackson started another rally with a double in the fifth. Rusty Torres also doubled to make it 2-0.

Following a sacrifice bunt that moved Torres to third, Dave Chauk used a safety squeeze bunt to widen the lead to 3-0. The ball was misplayed, allowing Chauk to move to third. With the infield pulled in, Andy Etchebarren singled home another run.

Monroe, 0-1, allowed three earned runs, six hits, and two walks. On Sept. 14, Monroe made his first start. Then he only worked two innings, allowing just one run on three hits. He was lifted as Manager Paul Richards brought in a lefthander to face a Kansas City lineup packed with lefty batters.

This former Forest View High School star has also made six relief appearances since joining the Sox from Knoxville late in August.

Chet Lemon ended a long Chicago scoreless inning streak with a two-run homer in the seventh, but it wasn't enough.

The rugs look nice but don't help pro football present itself as a game for rugged individuals. The sport, like the nation, has gone soft.

That could help explain 16,000 no-shows on an afternoon a Bears' game was blacked out. The rain is just a convenient excuse.

The game represents itself as too much theater. There's a subtle suggestion to the fan that since the player isn't being asked to play in difficult elements why should the fan have to do so as a spectator?

When it was decided to play the Super Bowl in warm weather, this robbed those cities that dreamed of hosting a championship. The fans brave the cold, biting winds of November and December, plus rain and snow, when they buy regular-season tickets. But they're deprived of a chance to freeze at the championship game.

Pro football simply has oversold itself. Every time you turn on the TV, you see a live game, a rerun or highlights. The exposure has to hurt because the games have become stereotyped.

For every Roger Staubach thriller, there are countless boring, ho-hum affairs directed by very conservative coaches afraid of losing their jobs.

No longer are the fans and writers crying out that baseball is a big bore because, if that's true, pro football has become a replica of tedium.

Competition is a relative thing because seeing two evenly matched sandlot, high school or college teams can often be a much better football show than the pros put on each weekend.

Just because they wear the pro label and get the big dollars doesn't mean they are going to put on a classic confrontation.

This entire pro football spectacle is fascinating. People have been prisoners of the game for so long a rebellion is developing.

Maybe those Sunday afternoons in the fall are just too precious to be taken up with the same thing week after week — watching football.

From Herald Wire Services

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Mount Prospect's Larry Monroe failed in his bid to win his second start for the White Sox here Thursday night.

The Angels defeated the White Sox, 7-3.

Monroe, a 20-year-old rookie, was touched for one run in the second and three in the fifth, being lifted in the sixth inning for relief pitcher Ken Kravec.

Tony Solaita doubled to lead off the second and scored on a single by Ron Jackson.

After sending the Angels down in order in three out of the first four innings, Jackson started another rally with a double in the fifth. Rusty Torres also doubled to make it 2-0.

Following a sacrifice bunt that moved Torres to third, Dave Chauk used a safety squeeze bunt to widen the lead to 3-0. The ball was misplayed, allowing Chauk to move to third. With the infield pulled in, Andy Etchebarren singled home another run.

Monroe, 0-1, allowed three earned runs, six hits, and two walks. On Sept. 14, Monroe made his first start. Then he only worked two innings, allowing just one run on three hits. He was lifted as Manager Paul Richards brought in a lefthander to face a Kansas City lineup packed with lefty batters.

This former Forest View High School star has also made six relief appearances since joining the Sox from Knoxville late in August.

Chet Lemon ended a long Chicago scoreless inning streak with a two-run homer in the seventh, but it wasn't enough.

Phils battling selves

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies, champions of the National League East, returned home Thursdaay amid a swirl of reports that the team was involved in internal disputes, some of them racial.

Prior to Wednesday night's 6-5 victory over the Cardinals in St. Louis, Manager Danny Ozark held a 34-minute team meeting in which he said he "really got on it. I guess some guys were insulted."

The meeting followed reports that some of the players were unhappy that controversial first baseman Dick Allen did not accompany the team to St. Louis, and was allowed to return home following the Phillies clinching of the division title in Montreal last Sunday.

Relief pitcher Tug McGraw was quoted as saying in St. Louis that if Allen was "so hot to celebrate with his family he should have flown them here. He makes $250,000 a year. He can afford it. They said he's been hitting an hour and a half every day at home. What the hell does he think his teammates are doing out here."

There were reports of grumbling among some of the Phillies' black players because Jerry Martin, a white, started in right field in place of Ollie Brown, a black, in the division clinching game.

Ozark said Brown was not hitting and he knew "why he wasn't in the lineup."

The Allen controversy started when he told a writer in Montreal that he would not play in the playoffs if the Phillies dropped veteran utility player Tony Taylor from the list of 25 players who will be eligible. The Phillies have used 26 players during the season, with Taylor being off and on the active list when there was a player on the disabled list.

Outfielder Garry Maddox, a black and one of the defensive mainstays of the team, said that during the meeting, "McGraw got up and brought up all this race stuff. I couldn't believe it. Somebody's sure been fooling me this season. I never saw a sign all year of any race problems. But now one of my teammates tells me we've got one. A lot of guys are upset by this."

Dr. Querica – Ali's savior

BOSTON — Dr. Lewis R. Querica has never been in the boxing ring before. But he put a little extra punch in Muhammad Ali's successful defense of his heavyweight title against Ken Norton.

Querica, of suburban Medford, is a chiropractic kineseologist. He was summoned to Ali's training camp at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., earlier this month to cure Ali of an injury received during a sparring session. The Massachusetts Chiropractic Society disclosed Thursday that Querica went to New York on the weekend of Sept. 11-12 to treat the champ for a whiplash injury to his neck.

Because of the injury, Ali was unable to turn his head, lift his arm to punch and, as a result, had to cancel his training sessions for four days. According to the society, comedian Dick Gregory, who was managing Ali's camp, asked Querica to come to the camp. The comedian is a patient of Querica's.

Other doctors had told Ali to wear a cervical collar and it was feared the fight with Norton would have to be canceled. Querica said that within one day of his arrival, much of the pain had been alleviated and that Ali was able to turn his head and lift his arm.

Peterson recovering from surgery

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Texas Rangers southpaw Fritz Peterson said Thursday he was recovering nicely from surgery performed at Centinela Valley Hospital two days ago to repair a torn muscle in his left shoulder.

The 34-year-old Peterson, a 20-game winner with the New York Yankees in 1970, hasn't pitched in a Ranger game since June 19. The operation, in the rotation cuff, also gave surgeons an opportunity to remove some bone spurs from his left arm.

Peterson said Rangers' Board Chairman Brad Corbett and Manager Frank Lucchesi "have just been tremendous" in mentally helping him overcome his physical problems.

"I've been on the active list the last three weeks, but Lucchesi didn't put me in a game," said Peterson. "I appreciate it. He knew my arm was hurting."

Peterson had a 1-3 record prior to his injury. He is a former Arlington High School player.

NFL owner: Rozelle insults Jews

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom blasted National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle Thursday for scheduling the Miami-Los Angeles game on Yom Kippur, the Jewish high holiday.

The game is scheduled to start at 4 p.m. EDT Sunday and will be televised nationally.

"This is a thing that was done with malice aforethought," said Rosenblom. "I make no claim to being a religious man, but I am Jewish and this is an insensitivity that has offended many people."

He said he would go to the game. Since the holiday, the Day of Atonement, begins at sundown, it was expected that many Jewish fans would leave the game at halftime to go to temple for religious services.

In reply to Rosenbloom's statement, Rozelle said the league had to provide a game for a national network telecast, adding, "The Rams, by scheduling rotation, play the Dolphins in Miami and this was the only attractive game available."

Bears hurting for home TV debut

The Chicago Bears, although listing three usual starters as questionable because of injuries, announced Thursday their Sunday game against the Washington Redskins was a sellout and the game would be televised here.

Given no more than a 50-50 chance to play Sunday were wide receivers Bo Rather, with a right knee injury, and Ron Shanklin, left knee, and guard Noah Jackson, left foot.

Illini's Friel doubtful for A&M game

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Coach Bob Blackman said Thursday whether tight end Marty Friel starts Saturday against Texas A&M will depend on how well he's feeling.

Friel has been out of practice all week because of an ankle injury he suffered during last week's game against Baylor. Mark Soebbing has been filling in for him and will start if Friel doesn't feel up to the game.

Blackman planned a light half-hour workout for today.

LSU gridders to devour 'gators'

BATON ROUGE, La. — Louisiana State's football squad readied for Saturday's match against Southeastern Conference foe Florida by feasting on "gator" steak.

Today's team lunch menu included 100 pounds of alligator meat which dormitory cook Etienne Picou said would taste "something like chicken." The gator meat was a gift to LSU Coach Charles McClendon.

Florida's team is nicknamed the Gators.

Palatine, Fremd keep on winning

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross-Country Editor

Palatine's Tom Johnson showed Thursday that the reports of his demise were greatly exaggerated as he and fellow Pirate junior Chuck Elliott led their team to a convincing 15-45 victory over Arlington in a cross country duel at Palatine Hills.

Meanwhile, at Union Oil, powerful Fremd tied the IHSA record for consecutive dual-meet victories by slugging Hersey 15-48 and Von Steuben 15-50.

In other meets, Hoffman Estates (4-0) stayed undefeated by topping Rolling Meadows 23-34, Conant preserved its unblemished record (4-0) with a 19-44 win at Elk Grove, Forest View knocked off Prospect 26-29, and Buffalo Grove stopped Wheeling 26-29.

Palatine's Johnson, stricken by a case of mono earlier in the season, was rumored at one time to be out for the remainder of the year. But Johnson scotched those rumors with a sixth-place effort at the Woodstock Invite last Saturday and returned to winning form Thursday against Arlington.

Johnson entered the chute hand-in-hand with teammate Elliott in a display of solidarity, but Johnson was given the No. 1 card. They were each clocked in 14:47 on the 2.75-mile course.

Palatine's Tony Vargas (14:59), Brian Kessler (15:03), and Kevin Koy (15:05) all finished ahead of Arlington's first man, Jim Lear (15:09).

The Pirates were tuning up for next Thursday's showdown with cross-town rival Fremd, which packed six runners in front of Hersey's top finisher Thursday.

The winner, with a sprint to the chute, was Dan Tischler (15:30), followed by mates John Filosa (15:31), Bob Ratcliffe (15:32), Matt Filosa (15:33), Rolando Garza (15:36), and Dan Inbody (15:40). Hersey's Steve Johnson was next (15:41).

Fremd and Hersey each shut out Von Steuben.

The two wins gave Fremd 55 straight dual-meet victories over a period of six seasons, two less than Viking coach Ron Menely had originally figured. The official IHSA record of 55, previously set by Peoria Central and now tied by Fremd, can be broken Thursday against Palatine and Maine West at Palatine Hills.

hoffman Estates' win over Meadows was achieved without the Hawks' No. 4 man, Bill Joyce. But Hoffman squeezed five runners ahead of Rolling Meadows' third harrier. The winner of the meet was Tom Choice of the Mustangs in 15:19, seven seconds off the Hoffman Estates course record.

Conant's Dan Cummings, running as strong as he has ever run, according to coach Jack Ary, took first place at Elk Grove in 15:15. Cummings was 18 seconds in front of Elk Grove senior Tim Cullen, who was second.

The day's only upset was Forest View's victory over Prospect. The loss dropped the Knights to 3-2 in South duals and virtually dealt them out of MSL title contention.

Bob Haas and Darryl Robinson finished one-two for Forest View, but the key to the meet was Prospect's Mark Smith and Ken Weendorf. The two Knight harriers had missed workouts all week because of illness and the result was evident. Smith, a junior, finished seventh, a full minute off his best course time, and the soph Weendorf was passed by two Falcon runners at the chute and ended up 10th.

Joe Schmidt of Buffalo Grove ended Ben Sanchez' undefeated conference record with a win in 15:38 on Buffalo Grove's home course. Sanchez was second in 15:48.

Wheeling wins non-league duel

Hersey and Prospect girls post tennis shutouts

Hersey and Prospect scored clean 7-0 sweeps in Mid-Suburban League girls tennis Thursday.

Hersey's Debby Sampson had the toughest time of the Huskies at No. 1 singles, going three sets with Hoffman Estates' Kate Swaya before winning 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Kathy Tchon won her No. 2 singles match by default and Elisabeth Buck won her No. 3 singles battle in straight sets.

The Hersey doubles pairings all won their matches in straight sets, led by Debbie Barnd and Jean Vetta at No. 1 doubles.

Prospect blanked Conant as every Knight entry won in straight sets.

Jean Rezny started the Knights off with a 6-0, 6-0 blitz at No. 1 singles.

The other Knight singles players, Carla Rub at No. 2 and Julie Schwem at No. 3, lost only three games between them.

League leading Arlington put another mark in the win column with a 6-1 decision over Forest View.

Jenny Kim and Nancy Lachus took Forest View's only point at No. 4 doubles, winning a taut 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 verdict.

Leslie Grabitz won easily at No. 1 singles with a 6-1, 6-0 count. Janet Haberkorn took her No. 2 singles match by the same score and Carrie Sears bettered them both with a 6-0, 6-0 win at No. 1 singles.

Beth Klawitter and Lisa Pugsley were extended to three sets before winning their No. 3 doubles match but the No. 1 team of Kris Richey and Nancy Weber and the No. 2 team of Laura Sanders and Kim Broderick lost only four games between them.

Wheeling stepped out of league competition for the afternoon and topped Sacred Heart, 6-1.

Carin Byckowski and Kim Wojcik scored impressive victories for the Wildcats at No. 1 and No. 3 singles respectively, dropping only three games between them.

The No. 1 Wheeling doubles team of Dotti Malin and Barb Wright had to scramble to take a 7-6, 7-6 win. All the other Wheeling doubles teams won in straight sets.

While Herstedt is satisfied with his team's defensive play thus far, he'd like to begin generating a more steady offense. "We got it going well for awhile at Peoria, driving for both our touchdowns. If we can keep running backs (Brad) Bouwman and (Jim) Luzinski in gear this week it'll counter the strong ground game I certainly expect them to get from (John) MacIsaac and (Ben) Orcutt."

MAINE WEST AT GLENBROOK NORTH

The Warriors will be hoping to break out of a three-game losing streak when they journey to Northbrook Friday to tackle the Spartans.

Glenbrook was idle last weekend, collecting a forfeit win over a Niles West unit handcuffed by a school strike. The Spartans were state champions in 1974 and under the direction of veteran coach Hal Samorian field consistently strong clubs.

Injuries are still plaguing the small Maine West team, as well as mistakes. A defensive breakdown allowed Maine South one long TD strike last week and an interception led to another score as the Hawks went on to topple West 21-8.

While Herstedt is satisfied with his team's defensive play thus far, he'd like to begin generating a more steady offense. "We got it going well for awhile at Peoria, driving for both our touchdowns. If we can keep running backs (Brad) Bouwman and (Jim) Luzinski in gear this week it'll counter the strong ground game I certainly expect them to get from (John) MacIsaac and (Ben) Orcutt."

MAINE WEST AT GLENBROOK NORTH

The Warriors will be hoping to break out of a three-game losing streak when they journey to Northbrook Friday to tackle the Spartans.

Glenbrook was idle last weekend, collecting a forfeit win over a Niles West unit handcuffed by a school strike. The Spartans were state champions in 1974 and under the direction of veteran coach Hal Samorian field consistently strong clubs.

Injuries are still plaguing the small Maine West team, as well as mistakes. A defensive breakdown allowed Maine South one long TD strike last week and an interception led to another score as the Hawks went on to topple West 21-8.

Court House plays host

Big racquetball weekend

The Court House in Schaumburg will be the site of the third annual United States Racquetball Assn. (USRA) Midwest Amateur Invitational Tournament this weekend.

The three-day event begins Friday at 5 p.m. with the opening matches. Finals in men's and women's singles are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Sunday.

There is no admission charge for any of the three days.

This is the third consecutive year that the Midwest Invitational will be held at the Schaumburg Court House, 1450 Payne Rd. in the suburb. Fred Blaess, a top area player, is the manager and head pro at the Court House.

Chuck Leve, USRA director, says the tourney will provide 48 of the best midwest amateurs with an opportunity to match their skills with other highly touted racqueteers from a 12-state area.

"Tournaments are a particularly important proving ground," said Leve. "It is especially important for young players who are thinking of turning professional. And many equipment manufacturers scout these tourneys looking for promising players to sponsor. There are many top amateurs just a half-step below the professional ranks."

Among Chicago area players who have been invited to participate include former finalists Terry Fancher and Steve Sully.

Among the top players invited to the tourney from around the midwest are Joe Wirkus, the Wisconsin state champ; Larry Fox, the national 16-and-under champ from Cincinnati; Joe Bechard, a national finalist in the masters' division; Rod Abrams, the Ohio state champion; Ron York another state champ from Kansas City (Mo.); Bill Gotlieb, a veteran of several pro-am tourneys; Bev Franks women's midwest regional champ; Barb Halpern, an accomplished tourney player from St. Louis; Ron Johnson, the Indiana state champ; and Patricia Schmidt, the state champ from Wisconsin.

Invited players from the local suburbs include Alan Shetzer, Tom Street, Clyde Senters, Paul Nigro, Georgia Maskalunas, Carol Armstrong, and Ade Crabtree.

The competition will be made up of a draw of 32 in the men's bracket and 16 in the women's bracket.

Women's cage clinic at Barrington High School

Beginning and advanced fundamentals and concepts of women's basketball are featured highlights of a two-day clinic for high school and college coaches, Oct. 22-23 at Barrington High School, Barrington.

The Kodak Women's National Basketball Coaches Clinics provide a full schedule of instruction by five of the nation's foremost coaches. During the Chicago area clinic, instructors will be: Cathy Rush, head coach at Immaculata College who led her teams to an unprecedented three consecutive ALW national championships; Dot McCrea, head coach at Stanford University and former head coach at Rutgers; Mary DiStanislao, Northwestern University head coach; Rene Muth Portland, assistant coach at Immaculata; and Maryalyce Jeremiah, head coach at Cedarville College.

Advanced topics covered include concepts of trapping defense and half-court pressure, match-up defenses, developing three-quarter and full-court pressure, and techniques for controlling the tempo of the game.

Beginning coaches can learn ball-handling fundamentals, techniques of shooting, two-on-two and three-on-three fundamentals, and defense and agility drills. All clinic participants are free to move from group to group.

A panel discussion, "The Coaches Hour," an open exchange of ideas between experts and audience, is scheduled for Friday evening, Oct. 22. Also on Friday's agenda is an in-dept look at the development and building of various zone offenses, followed by an informal discussion with members of the clinic staff.

RED DIVISION
Wombats 15, Raiders 0
The Licht Paint and Powers Motors Wombats used a scrambling, opportunistic defense Wednesday to humble the Raiders, 15-0 and move their record to 2-1.

Wombat signal caller "Bullet" Brian Reed, who clicked on 17 of 25 passes for 198 yards, hit Al Ernst on a 5-yard touchdown cast on the first offensive play of the game after cornerback Chuck McDuck intercepted a Raider pass.

The defense put the game out of reach when Glenn "The Mad Stork" Heffner smothered the Raider QB in the end zone for a safety.

Reed marched the marsupials down the field in the second half for their final touchdown, working to Jeff "Rabbit" Smith and George "The Vacuum" Danker before finding Ernst in the end zone for a 17-yard score.

2 stakes close Arlington

Saturday's closing-day feature at Arlington Park is the $30,000-added Laurance Armour Handicap that is expected to lure a field of eight or nine entrants for the 1-1/16 mile turf course attraction.

Scheduled to go to post are Old Frankfort, Whirlawhile, Fair Evar Bart, Sarco and Wigglesworth. Other possibilities are Famed Comedian, Tartar Chief, Bold Roll, Mauauding, Rooter and Sr. Diplomat.

Sharing the spotlight with the Laurance Armour will be the $25,000-added Anita Peabody Handicap, a one mile turf test for fillies and mares bred and/or foaled in Illinois.

Most attention, though, will be directed to the $250,000 Marlboro Cup Handicap at Belmont Park where Forego and Foolish Pleasure battle for Horse of the Year honors.

And they probably never will. Because real rustproofing can't be done on an assembly line. Undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't do a complete job either.
But Ziebart uses 9 patented spray tools to get inside your car's body. We cover every square inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car really rustproof, and worth more when you do trade it in.

The real Ali wasn't there

Jim Murray

NEW YORK — A funny thing happened at the Norton-Ali heavyweight championship fight Tuesday night. No, not the decision, although that was funny enough.

What was funny about it was that the champ didn't show up. Oh, there was someone there in white trunks and a whole bunch of Jerry Lewis shticks. But, whoever that was, it wasn't Muhammad Ali. Ali should have this guy arrested.

It was some clumsy, flat-footed bum. A prelim boy, I would guess they picked up in the gym.

He even fooled the judges. But he couldn't fool anyone who ever saw the real Ali. This imposter should have been thrown out of there by the third round. It was the worst imitation of Muhammad Ali ever seen.

Listen! We all know about the Ali style. Dazzling speed, beautiful moves, blinding head fakes. A thrill to watch. The nearest thing to a glorious sunset ever seen in the ring. A flaming incandescence it hurt to look at.

But this guy looked like the rear of a refugee march. The real Ali must be bound and gagged in a closet some place.

Ken Norton beat this guy to a farethee-well. All I can guess is that the judges got confused as to which was which. Even the guy impersonating Ali knew he was beat. He slunk to his corner at the end of 15 rounds, turning his back on the taunts of Norton.

Have you ever heard of the butterfly wanting to turn into a caterpillar? The swan who'd rather be a duck? A prince who'd rather be a frog?

Well, that's Ali. The most beautiful thing to watch ever to lace on gloves and all of a sudden he wants to be Ernie. "The Rock" Durando. He starts to fight like something known as "The Belting Brakeman" or "One Punch Hogan."

This is a guy who used to disappear on his opponent about the third round and do eversthing but tap dance on the top of his head while he chatted with the crowd, did a buck and wing, sang a few choruses of "Mother Machree" or otherwise enjoyed himself. Now, he's fighting like a guy who just hopes to land that one big punch before they turn the lights out. He's like a clubfighter who can only throw crazy rights.

The canary wants to be a cat. Ali wants to go down in history as a slugger. That's like Caruso preferring to be known as a locomotive engineer, Bernhardt wanting to be remembered for her cooking.

It was the story of the fight. Ali junked the act that brought him to Broadway and began doing bird calls. He started acting like "The Battling Boilermaker" or somebody called "Rocky."

"Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" became "float like an anvil and sting like an ox."

It really cost him the fight, I don't care what those judges think. I mean, I can see, too. If Ali won that fight, Japan won World War II.

It wasn't much of a fight. The fight crowd has a name for it, an "agony" fight. Carter-Ford was a slugfest by comparison. Joe Garagiola said it was "the first no-hitter in the new Yankee Stadium. The two fighters stood there and slugged each other with dirty looks most of the night. By the eighth round, North was even out-talking him.

These guys have now fought 39 monotonous rounds and they could probably fight 139 more and still have an 8-7 or split decision. For excitement, they're just better than test patterns. I'd rather listen to a lecture on the migratory habits of the fruit fly than sit through another one of these.

The trouble with fights like these is that so little happens, it's hard to give a round to either one of them. If you care, I had Norton 9-5 and 1-even. Norton's camp screamed that they stole the fight from him. If so, it was petty larceny.

Besides, the guy Ali temporarily bequeaths the heavyweight title to doesn't seem to be able to do much with it. They're better off fighting him for the challenger's percentage than fighting anyone else for 90 per cent of it.

Ali has gone the route of all old fighters. He fights in brief flashy flurries. He gets the judges to picking the wrong walnut without the pea under it. He makes them think he's really sawing the girl in half.

Nothing worked. They gave him his title I guess for Christmas. Even his personal physician, Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, in the locker room afterward confided glumly, "He (Ali) took a beating in there tonight." Ali's corner thought his nose was broken once.

And so closes another chapter in the thrilling adventures of Muhammad Ali as he strolls down life's highways. The swan who would be a rooster, the star who would rather be the best friend, the artist who yearns to move scenery is no more baroque than the brilliant recitalist who wants to move the piano. Ali fighting out of a flatfoot crouch, taking 10 to get in one punch is an outrage against nature. It's the worst kind of miscasting, an offense to the senses.

Also, it doesn't work. Ali is not going to win fights the way Marciano did. He's got to win the way Willie Pep did. And if it won't work against a Hollywood movie actor where will it get him against a professional fighter? A lion can't beat you with his tail and a shark doesn't sting you and Ali trading punches is like an eagle running. He needs a psychiatrist. If he can't run and dance anymore, he shouldn't be in places where he has to.

The real Ali wasn't there

Jim Murray

NEW YORK — A funny thing happened at the Norton-Ali heavyweight championship fight Tuesday night. No, not the decision, although that was funny enough.

What was funny about it was that the champ didn't show up. Oh, there was someone there in white trunks and a whole bunch of Jerry Lewis shticks. But, whoever that was, it wasn't Muhammad Ali. Ali should have this guy arrested.

It was some clumsy, flat-footed bum. A prelim boy, I would guess they picked up in the gym.

He even fooled the judges. But he couldn't fool anyone who ever saw the real Ali. This imposter should have been thrown out of there by the third round. It was the worst imitation of Muhammad Ali ever seen.

Listen! We all know about the Ali style. Dazzling speed, beautiful moves, blinding head fakes. A thrill to watch. The nearest thing to a glorious sunset ever seen in the ring. A flaming incandescence it hurt to look at.

But this guy looked like the rear of a refugee march. The real Ali must be bound and gagged in a closet some place.

Ken Norton beat this guy to a farethee-well. All I can guess is that the judges got confused as to which was which. Even the guy impersonating Ali knew he was beat. He slunk to his corner at the end of 15 rounds, turning his back on the taunts of Norton.

Have you ever heard of the butterfly wanting to turn into a caterpillar? The swan who'd rather be a duck? A prince who'd rather be a frog?

Well, that's Ali. The most beautiful thing to watch ever to lace on gloves and all of a sudden he wants to be Ernie. "The Rock" Durando. He starts to fight like something known as "The Belting Brakeman" or "One Punch Hogan."

This is a guy who used to disappear on his opponent about the third round and do eversthing but tap dance on the top of his head while he chatted with the crowd, did a buck and wing, sang a few choruses of "Mother Machree" or otherwise enjoyed himself. Now, he's fighting like a guy who just hopes to land that one big punch before they turn the lights out. He's like a clubfighter who can only throw crazy rights.

The canary wants to be a cat. Ali wants to go down in history as a slugger. That's like Caruso preferring to be known as a locomotive engineer, Bernhardt wanting to be remembered for her cooking.

It was the story of the fight. Ali junked the act that brought him to Broadway and began doing bird calls. He started acting like "The Battling Boilermaker" or somebody called "Rocky."

"Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" became "float like an anvil and sting like an ox."

It really cost him the fight, I don't care what those judges think. I mean, I can see, too. If Ali won that fight, Japan won World War II.

It wasn't much of a fight. The fight crowd has a name for it, an "agony" fight. Carter-Ford was a slugfest by comparison. Joe Garagiola said it was "the first no-hitter in the new Yankee Stadium. The two fighters stood there and slugged each other with dirty looks most of the night. By the eighth round, North was even out-talking him.

These guys have now fought 39 monotonous rounds and they could probably fight 139 more and still have an 8-7 or split decision. For excitement, they're just better than test patterns. I'd rather listen to a lecture on the migratory habits of the fruit fly than sit through another one of these.

The trouble with fights like these is that so little happens, it's hard to give a round to either one of them. If you care, I had Norton 9-5 and 1-even. Norton's camp screamed that they stole the fight from him. If so, it was petty larceny.

Besides, the guy Ali temporarily bequeaths the heavyweight title to doesn't seem to be able to do much with it. They're better off fighting him for the challenger's percentage than fighting anyone else for 90 per cent of it.

Ali has gone the route of all old fighters. He fights in brief flashy flurries. He gets the judges to picking the wrong walnut without the pea under it. He makes them think he's really sawing the girl in half.

Nothing worked. They gave him his title I guess for Christmas. Even his personal physician, Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, in the locker room afterward confided glumly, "He (Ali) took a beating in there tonight." Ali's corner thought his nose was broken once.

And so closes another chapter in the thrilling adventures of Muhammad Ali as he strolls down life's highways. The swan who would be a rooster, the star who would rather be the best friend, the artist who yearns to move scenery is no more baroque than the brilliant recitalist who wants to move the piano. Ali fighting out of a flatfoot crouch, taking 10 to get in one punch is an outrage against nature. It's the worst kind of miscasting, an offense to the senses.

Also, it doesn't work. Ali is not going to win fights the way Marciano did. He's got to win the way Willie Pep did. And if it won't work against a Hollywood movie actor where will it get him against a professional fighter? A lion can't beat you with his tail and a shark doesn't sting you and Ali trading punches is like an eagle running. He needs a psychiatrist. If he can't run and dance anymore, he shouldn't be in places where he has to.

40-under par tops 2-day golf tourney at Mount Prospect

As expected, it took 40-under par to win the ninth annual Mount Prospect Open Golf Tournament played at the Mount Prospect Country Club. The tourney format this year was a four-man team at full handicap, playing two best balls per hole.

Due to the rainy weather, the second round which was delayed two hours, was played as a shotgun start (one team on each tee beginning at the same time). However, the rain delay had little adverse effect on the contending teams as the winning team shot 22 under par for the day, four better than Saturday's round, and 40 under for the tournament. Tom Piazza of Mount Prospect captained the winning team (second time in a row for Tom) and was ably assisted by local residents Fritz Fassnacht 13, Art Hammerstrom 17 and Frank Gunn 19.

The second-place finishers at 39-under par also had a Fassnacht. Fred, the father of Fritz, captained the team which also had low round of the day at 23 under par. Other members of the second-place team were John Demaret of Glenview at 13, Ron Revers 17 and Al LaQuey 23. Revers and LaQuey as well as Fassnacht are Mount Prospect residents.

Thirty-seven under par took third place. This team was captained by Mike MacDonald, 6, of Palatine followed by three local Mount Prospect residents who oddly enough play in the same group throughout the golfing season — Larry Kurka 13, Jack Kilroy 15 and Larry Ostling 18.

Fourth and fifth place was settled at 33-under par. George Wells 9, Jim Moran 14, Ward Oliver 16 and Bill Hickey 23, all Mount Prospect residents shared in the tie with the team of Ed Esler of Wauconda, 9, Jim Brennan, 14, of Mount Prospect, Pat Sandell, 16, of Hanover Park and Bob Anderson of the local club.

Closest to the pin players were awarded each day for accuracy on the Par 3 holes, No. 7 and 12. On Saturday Wayne White of Mount Prospect, the last golfer to shoot on No. 7, took the prize while Frank Gunn was closest on No. 12 with a shot six feet from the hole. Sunday, Bob Krause, a 22 handicapper, won on the difficult two-tiered No. 7 and Norm Denzinger on No. 12 was five feet from the hole.

The social activities held each day following play, were hosted by Elayne and Jim Moran at their home in Mount Prospect.

Most of the 100 players agreed that the two-man best ball event tried this year for the first time, was not only exciting but required real team play. Each team member had to play to his full handicap.

The 1977 event, which will complete the first decade of the tourneys history, will follow the same format. It will probably be scheduled the last weekend in September.

15% rail fare hike near; RTA shuns hearing

by LYNN ASINOF

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday moved one step closer to a 15 per cent fare increase when it presented its final testimony to the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The hearing originally was scheduled so that the Regional Transportation Authority could testify on its negotiations for purchase of the railroad's commuter services. The RTA, however, did not show up at the hearing.

Railroad officials say the failure to reach an agreement with the RTA is forcing them to seek the fare increase. Christopher A. Mills, attorney representing the railroad, said the last negotiations with the RTA were Aug. 4.

"SINCE AUG. 4 we have heard nothing at all from the RTA," Mills said.

The case will now go to oral argument as a result of a request by Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, who is protesting the fare increase.

No date has been set for argument before the commission members.

By law, the commission must rule on the case by Oct. 29. If there is no ruling, the increase automatically will go into effect. Hearing Officer Robert Walner said, however, the ICC expects a ruling shortly.

The 15 per cent fare increase would result in hikes of between 20 and 25 cents for one-way tickets to and from the Northwest suburbs. Arlington Heights Village Pres. James Ryan has argued that this increase would be double taxation since North Western riders are supporting the RTA with tax money, but receiving no benefits.

EVEN IF THE fare increase is approved, Mills said the railroad will lose money this year. Railroad officials estimate they are losing $4 million a year with the existing fare structure.

"We are losing money mainly because prices are going up," Mills said, noting the railroads last made a profit in 1975.

Mills said he thought it was significant the RTA chose not to testify at the fare hearings.

"We presented a lot of testimony on where we stand and the RTA has not said one word about its stand on negotiations. You can draw your own conclusion from that," he said.

Winter heat bill may rise 13 to 15% NI Gas says

by KURT BAER

Winter home heating bills from the Northern Illinois Gas Co. are expected to total 13 to 15 per cent more than last year, a company spokeswoman said Thursday.

Gas supplies are described as adequate to meet the winter demand of NI gas customers. Residential users should not encounter natural gas shortages, spokeswoman Regina Hayes said.

The higher cost of natural gas is the result of price increases by the pipeline companies that supply NI Gas, she said.

THE GAS COMPANY is permitted to pass higher costs to consumers automatically.

Gas producers and pipeline companies now are allowed to charge $1.42 per thousand cubic feet on gas contracted for interstate sale after Jan. 1, 1975. The new price is almost three times the old ceiling price of 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Other lower rates are charged by gas producers and pipeline companies depending on when the gas being sold was produced.

At the time it approved the higher ceiling prices, the power commission estimated the average gas consumer's yearly bill would increase $15.60, with state-by-state variations.

BASED ON THE average estimated 15 per cent increase for NI Gas customers, a home heating bill that totaled $300 last winter will cost $345 this year.

15% rail fare hike near; RTA shuns hearing

by LYNN ASINOF

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday moved one step closer to a 15 per cent fare increase when it presented its final testimony to the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The hearing originally was scheduled so that the Regional Transportation Authority could testify on its negotiations for purchase of the railroad's commuter services. The RTA, however, did not show up at the hearing.

Railroad officials say the failure to reach an agreement with the RTA is forcing them to seek the fare increase. Christopher A. Mills, attorney representing the railroad, said the last negotiations with the RTA were Aug. 4.

"SINCE AUG. 4 we have heard nothing at all from the RTA," Mills said.

The case will now go to oral argument as a result of a request by Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, who is protesting the fare increase.

No date has been set for argument before the commission members.

By law, the commission must rule on the case by Oct. 29. If there is no ruling, the increase automatically will go into effect. Hearing Officer Robert Walner said, however, the ICC expects a ruling shortly.

The 15 per cent fare increase would result in hikes of between 20 and 25 cents for one-way tickets to and from the Northwest suburbs. Arlington Heights Village Pres. James Ryan has argued that this increase would be double taxation since North Western riders are supporting the RTA with tax money, but receiving no benefits.

EVEN IF THE fare increase is approved, Mills said the railroad will lose money this year. Railroad officials estimate they are losing $4 million a year with the existing fare structure.

"We are losing money mainly because prices are going up," Mills said, noting the railroads last made a profit in 1975.

Mills said he thought it was significant the RTA chose not to testify at the fare hearings.

"We presented a lot of testimony on where we stand and the RTA has not said one word about its stand on negotiations. You can draw your own conclusion from that," he said.

Winter heat bill may rise 13 to 15% NI Gas says

by KURT BAER

Winter home heating bills from the Northern Illinois Gas Co. are expected to total 13 to 15 per cent more than last year, a company spokeswoman said Thursday.

Gas supplies are described as adequate to meet the winter demand of NI gas customers. Residential users should not encounter natural gas shortages, spokeswoman Regina Hayes said.

The higher cost of natural gas is the result of price increases by the pipeline companies that supply NI Gas, she said.

THE GAS COMPANY is permitted to pass higher costs to consumers automatically.

This summer, the Federal Power Commission approved sharply higher ceiling prices for natural gas.

Gas producers and pipeline companies now are allowed to charge $1.42 per thousand cubic feet on gas contracted for interstate sale after Jan. 1, 1975. The new price is almost three times the old ceiling price of 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Other lower rates are charged by gas producers and pipeline companies depending on when the gas being sold was produced.

At the time it approved the higher ceiling prices, the power commission estimated the average gas consumer's yearly bill would increase $15.60, with state-by-state variations.

BASED ON THE average estimated 15 per cent increase for NI Gas customers, a home heating bill that totaled $300 last winter will cost $345 this year.

Political briefs

Rep. Udall in area today to aid Carter campaign

U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., once a presidential candidate, will campaign for Democrat Jimmy Carter today in the 12th Congressional District.

Udall will take part in the grand opening of Carter's campaign offices in Arlington Heights and Highland Park.

The Highland Park appearance is scheduled for 12:15 p.m. and the congressman will stop in North Point Shopping Center in Arlington Heights at about 2:15 p.m.

Udall will make other appearances today for Carter in Evanston and DeKalb.

Another close Mikva-Young race

Assessments from both Democratic and Republican leaders in the 10th Congressional District continue to suggest the campaign between Republican Samuel H. Young of Glenview and U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, will be another close contest.

Several Republican committeemen in the district, which includes Des Plaines, believe the Republican voter turnout in the Maine Township area could be the key.

New Trier Township GOP Committeeman Dave Brown made that assessment Wednesday night, saying the organization there has been rejuvenated and should produce a big Republican vote this year.

Maine Township GOP Committeeman Philip Raffe said he hopes to give Young a 9,000-vote edge over Mikva in the township. He expects the results in the district's other four townships to represent a stand-off.

Mikva's forces also have been concentrating on Maine Township.

Jack Marco, Mikva's administrative assistant, said more than 1,200 voters have been registered to vote in the district. He expects another 1,000 or more to be registered on precinct registration day Tuesday.

The 1974 contest saw Mikva edge Young by less than 3,000 votes. Both candidates have said they expect this election to be close.

Chapman hits right-to-life groups

Mrs. Chapman was critical of the effort, stating the abortion question was not an issue in the Illinois General Assembly.

The partial results of a questionnaire circulated by Chapman in the Third Legislative District indicate that 107 persons are opposed to the legislature ratifying a constitutional amendment banning abortion, if it is passed by Congress, while 57 favor the ratification. She sent 14,000 copies of the questionnaire to constituents last week.

Business conference Oct. 8

U.S. Rep. Phillip M. Crane, R-12th, will host his third annual business conference Oct. 8 at the Arlington Park Hilton, Arlington Heights.

Crane said representatives of three federal agencies will attend the session to address local businessmen on the operation of various federal programs. Persons interested in attending the conference should contact Crane's office at 394-0790 for more information.

New methods in drug fight sought

Democrat Marshall Rothman, a candidate for the Illinois Senate from the Second Legislative District, called for new methods of dealing with narcotics-and drug-related crimes in the state.

"If we can control guns and drugs, then I would foresee a drastic and welcome drop in our crime rate," Rothman said.

Rossberger criticizes opponent

Joseph F. Rossberger Jr., a Democratic candidate for the Illinois House in the First Legislative District, disputed one of his opponents claims regarding expertise in education.

Rossberger noted that Roger Keats, a Republican, has said he probably would be a better expert in the field of education than all the legislators in Springfield except for maybe three or four.

"If that is true, then why have the two largest professional teachers' organizations given me and not my opponent their endorsements?" Rossberger asked.

Keats is a teacher, but Rossberger has gained the endorsement of the Illinois Federation of Teachers and the Illinois Education Assn.

Rep. Udall in area today to aid Carter campaign

U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., once a presidential candidate, will campaign for Democrat Jimmy Carter today in the 12th Congressional District.

Udall will take part in the grand opening of Carter's campaign offices in Arlington Heights and Highland Park.

The Highland Park appearance is scheduled for 12:15 p.m. and the congressman will stop in North Point Shopping Center in Arlington Heights at about 2:15 p.m.

Udall will make other appearances today for Carter in Evanston and DeKalb.

Another close Mikva-Young race

Assessments from both Democratic and Republican leaders in the 10th Congressional District continue to suggest the campaign between Republican Samuel H. Young of Glenview and U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, will be another close contest.

Several Republican committeemen in the district, which includes Des Plaines, believe the Republican voter turnout in the Maine Township area could be the key.

New Trier Township GOP Committeeman Dave Brown made that assessment Wednesday night, saying the organization there has been rejuvenated and should produce a big Republican vote this year.

Maine Township GOP Committeeman Philip Raffe said he hopes to give Young a 9,000-vote edge over Mikva in the township. He expects the results in the district's other four townships to represent a stand-off.

Mikva's forces also have been concentrating on Maine Township.

Jack Marco, Mikva's administrative assistant, said more than 1,200 voters have been registered to vote in the district. He expects another 1,000 or more to be registered on precinct registration day Tuesday.

The 1974 contest saw Mikva edge Young by less than 3,000 votes. Both candidates have said they expect this election to be close.

Chapman hits right-to-life groups

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, renewed comments Thursday over the efforts by right-to-life groups to oppose her reelection campaign.

Mrs. Chapman was critical of the effort, stating the abortion question was not an issue in the Illinois General Assembly.

The partial results of a questionnaire circulated by Chapman in the Third Legislative District indicate that 107 persons are opposed to the legislature ratifying a constitutional amendment banning abortion, if it is passed by Congress, while 57 favor the ratification. She sent 14,000 copies of the questionnaire to constituents last week.

Business conference Oct. 8

U.S. Rep. Phillip M. Crane, R-12th, will host his third annual business conference Oct. 8 at the Arlington Park Hilton, Arlington Heights.

Crane said representatives of three federal agencies will attend the session to address local businessmen on the operation of various federal programs. Persons interested in attending the conference should contact Crane's office at 394-0790 for more information.

New methods in drug fight sought

Democrat Marshall Rothman, a candidate for the Illinois Senate from the Second Legislative District, called for new methods of dealing with narcotics-and drug-related crimes in the state.

"If we can control guns and drugs, then I would foresee a drastic and welcome drop in our crime rate," Rothman said.

Rossberger criticizes opponent

Joseph F. Rossberger Jr., a Democratic candidate for the Illinois House in the First Legislative District, disputed one of his opponents claims regarding expertise in education.

Rossberger noted that Roger Keats, a Republican, has said he probably would be a better expert in the field of education than all the legislators in Springfield except for maybe three or four.

"If that is true, then why have the two largest professional teachers' organizations given me and not my opponent their endorsements?" Rossberger asked.

Keats is a teacher, but Rossberger has gained the endorsement of the Illinois Federation of Teachers and the Illinois Education Assn.
